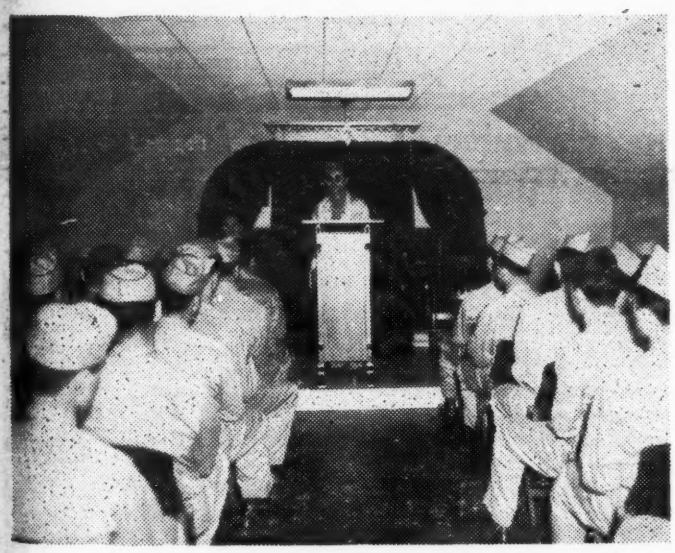
New Hillel House and Frommer Chapel



The new Hillel House at Bloomington and the Rabbi Jacob Frommer Memorial Chapel are shown here. The new house will be dedicated on Sunday, Nov. 21. The chapel is the gift of Lt. Justin of the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve and Larry Frommer, both of whom were active at Hillel, in honor of their grandfather.

Wise Says War To End On April 12, 1944

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK — War against Germany will end on April 12, 1944, it was predicted this week by Rabbi Stephen Wise. Dr. Wise voiced his prediction in connection with the nation-wide "Time for Victory" contest, the sponsors of which are offering $2,500 in war bonds to the person making the most accurate guess.

Dr. Kurt Rosenfeld Succumbs at 68

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—Funeral services will be held here this week for Dr. Kurt Rosenfeld, prominent German Jewish Socialist and jurist, who died at his home in Queens at the age of 68. Dr. Rosenfeld was a member of the Reichstag from 1919 until 1933 when he was forced to flee Germany. Prior to that he was Prussian Minister of Justice. At the time of his death he was president of the anti-Nazi German American Emergency Conference, which he helped to found here a short time ago to combat Nazi acttivities.

Hull Greets Jews

WASHINGTON—The following is a Rosh Hashonah message issued by Secretary of State Cordell Hull to the Jews of America through the Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

"On the occasion of the celebration of the Jewish New Year I desire to extend my greetings to all Americans of the Jewish faith. It seems appropriate at this season to express again my constant sympathy with them in their sorrow over those of their religion who still live and die in the deep shadow of persecution. It is also appropriate at this time for us to rejoice together over the world's quickening hope for the dawn of a new year in which we may realize peace at last for all the great brotherhood of mankind."

10, 7-Year Terms As Two Guilty In Arms Trial

By B. CORALNIK

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

JERUSALEM—A British military court this week sentenced Leib Sirkin and Abraham Rachlin to terms of ten and seven years imprisonment, respectively, on charges of illegally securing arms stolen from military stores.

The verdict, which was immediately followed by the sentencing of the two defendants, was issued this morning after a six-week trial which attracted world-wide attention, since the issues involved transcended the guilt or innocence of the two accused.

Defense attorneys Philip Joseph and Asher Levitsky announced that they would appeal the decision to the general officer commanding British forces in the Middle East and would carry the case to the King, if necessary. Dr. Joseph, who was Sirkin's attorney, stated that "Sirkin came here for justice, not mercy. He still considers himself innocent and will not refrain from appealing to the GOC and, if that fails, to the King."

Before delivering the court's verdict, the president of the tribunal, Maj. Russel Lawrence, made the following statement: "This trial has proved the existence of a large, embracing conspiracy to obtain arms and ammunition from His Majesty's forces. The offenses of which both accused are charged, are a result of this conspiracy which is against the security of the country's inhabitants as well as a hindrance to the war effort. No decent man should allow arms brought by sea at risk of men's lives to be stolen. The organization behind the accused seemingly possesses vast sums of money and a great knowledge of military matters and organization."

NEW YEAR RESOLUTIONS RECOMMENDED FOR UNANIMOUS ADOPTION BY ALL ISRAEL

By RABBI SAMUEL ROSINGER

I firmly resolve that I shall no longer be a Jew merely by accident of birth, but by the knowledge and convictions born of breeding. Judaism is not a blind faith. It is a religion of light. Its symbols are the Perpetual Lamp and the Menorah. I shall inform myself of the history and the traditions of my people, glory in their matchless achievements, and prize the spiritual treasures they bequeathed to me as a most precious heritage.

I firmly resolve to be staunchly loyal to the faith of my fathers, and to the Congregation of Israel that has preserved it. As an American citizen I will serve unreservedly my country and promote its welfare to the best of my ability. Yet, civic work will never absorb me so completely that I neglect the duties and obligations I owe my own religion and the Jewish community. I will be fully mindful of the truth the better Jew, the better American I am.

I firmly resolve that I shall not make a mockery of my religion by attending Divine services only on two days in the year, nor shall I be driven to the House of God by bereavement to recite the Kaddish prayer. I shall serve the Lord with joy and participate in public worship at least every Sabbath.

I firmly resolve that I shall make of my religion a living faith by reintroducing into my home the time hallowed prayers and ceremonies which sanctify life, and by their symbolism remind us that we are under the dispensation of an all loving Providence.

I firmly resolve that I shall

Women, 14-Year Olds Forced to Work in Labor Camps

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

GENEVA—Tens of thousands of Jewish deportees from France, Belgium, Holland, Bulgaria and the Government-General section of Poland are confined in labor camps in Upper Silesia, in Poland, where they are being used for road building, mining and other difficult manual labor, according to a reliable report reaching here this week.

Among the deportees are several thousand women, who are also compelled to work, the report says. It declares that conditions at most of the camps are so appalling that many of the internees have committed suicide. In a camp at Koenigshutte, the report discloses, there are 3,000 French Jews, including children of 14 and 15 years of age, who are forced to work in neighboring potassium mines and to dwell in underground quarters.

At camp Breig near Breslau, the report continues, 600 Parisian Jews are employed as road-builders. They work from 4:30 a. m. until 7 p. m. with only one hour for rest and eating. About 9,000 Jewish deportees from Czechoslovakia, Holland and France are working in the Myskiwuez-Chrazanow-Trzebinia region, while 5,000 from the Government-General are in a camp at Myslowitz. A few thousand Jews in the Katowice-Birkenau-Wadowice district are used for constructing bridges and building houses and roads.

Two thousand Jewish women from Paris are at Oberlangen-Bielau and another 300 are at a camp near Neisse, the report reveals. Conditions at the latter camp, it adds, are partitcularly bad, and many of the women prisoners are reported to have taken their lives.

Prisoners Revolt, Fire Death Chambers

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON — Jewish prisoners in the notorious Treblinka concentration camp in Poland revolted in August, setting fire to barracks and other buildings and also to the gas chambers in which thousands of Jews have been executed, according to a report reaching the Polish Government-in-Exile here this week. The report does not give any further details.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

GOVERNOR SCHRICKER

Sincerely we salute the sons and daughters of the Jewish people of Indiana who have so gallantly answered the call to their country's colors . . . and we salute the Jewish men and women on the home front who through their untiring efforts and accomplishments are proving that Hitlerism must be driven from the face of the earth and that free people will make any necessary patriotic sacrifice to keep our nation free.

★ We are proud that the Democratic Party, the oldest political party in the world, has always and will always be the champion of tolerance.

★ We point with pride to the fact that the Democratic Party has always fought the battle of the oppressed.

★ The Democratic Party in Indiana is proud to present its distinguished leaders, President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Governor Henry F. Schricker. President Roosevelt is the outstanding figure in the world today in the battle for human rights. Governor Henry F. Schricker has definitely demonstrated that he is the governor for all the people regardless of race, class, creed or color.

May we take this opportunity to wish for all the Jewish people in our great state, health, happiness and prosperity in the New Year 5704 and assure them that the Democratic Party will always be mindful of their best interest and shall ever endeavor to bring to them good government.

Yours for Victory,

INDIANA DEMOCRATIC STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE

FRED F. BAYS, Chairman

CIGARETTE FUND DOUBLES AGAIN; NOW $135.70

Headed by a $25.00 gift from the National Silk Hosiery Mills, the Jewish Post Cigarette Fund to provide a carton of cigarettes as a Chanukah Gift for every Indiana Jewish servicemen, almost doubled itself this week. The total to date rests at $135.00 as against $78.70 last week.

With the fund adding larger and larger weekly amounts as readers of The Post are joining in to make possible this memento from Indiana Jewry to its men and women serving in the armed forces, wherever stationed, prospects for reaching the $1,000 goal were considerably heightened. The National Silk gift is the first from a large firm and should be the forerunner of many other such gifts from all parts of the state.

Two anonymous gifts, one from Indianapolis and the other from Fort Wayne made their appearance this week, although The Post prefers to list the names of contributors.

Marion kept the lead for out-of-state contributions when the Marion Men's Recreation Club, which is a group who meet regularly for the relaxation of cards, sent in $10.00.

The deadline for sending gifts to army men overseas is Oct. 15, with the deadline for Navy men set at Nov. 1. This is for gifts for Chanukah, which this year falls on Dec. 22. Gifts to men in the United States camps may be sent later, so that more time to reach the goal is available. It is estimated that 1,500 or more Indiana Jewish men and women are in the service, so that at least $1,000 will be required if all of them are to be remembered.

The Marion Recreation Club gift is the second from a card or related group. The first came in last week from the Tuesday Mah Jong Club, which was listed at $15.00. When the check came in, it was for $16.00, and in order to keep the records straight the extra dollar is shown this week.

Total announced last week $78.70

Rabbis Address Community at Holiday Season

A New Year Editorial

By RABBI MAURICE GOLDBLATT
Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation

THE AMERICAN JEW FACES THE NEW YEAR with mixed feelings. It is our own happy lot to be in blessed America. Elsewhere in the world the Jew stands in jeopardy of life and spirit. May God grant that the long dark shadow of despair will be lifted and the bright light of victory will bring lasting peace to all mankind.

Until that time, let us spare no effort to hasten the coming of the day of deliverance from fear and anxiety and the realization of freedom and democracy for all mankind.

Jewish History Continually a Tale of Woe

By RABBI IRVING A. WEINGART
B'nai Jacob Congregation, Fort Wayne

OURS IS CONTINUALLY A TALE OF WOE. Our hopes and prayers of the yester-years yet go unanswered and darkness still envelopes the Jewish horizon. Thus, standing at the threshold of a new year, we may justly pose the query—What is new in the New Year?

We, as Elijah of old, flee from the tragedy of Jewish experience to the Mount of the Lord—there to await an answer to the mystery of our plight and existence. As Elijah, we hear howling winds blowing from all quarters, chilling the Jewish spirit; we witness turbulent storms of upheaval playing havoc with Jewish life; we are helpless spectators witnessing destructive fires consuming Jewish body and soul and creations of centuries. But, alas, unfortunately, unlike Elijah we are not privileged to hear the small quiet assuring Voice that, after this upheaval, will come peace and tranquility to the Jewish soul.

However, standing at the peak of the old year we can better acquire the proper perspective to evaluate our experiences, guage our strength, weigh our failures, contemplate our short-comings, and then turn our gaze to the tomorrow.

If our experiences were tragic and bitter, they were part of a world tragedy—only more severe. If our strength has been sapped in one sphere, it has been invigorated and revitalized in another sphere—America, through the union of forces expressed by the assembly of the American Jewish Conference. FRIDAY, OCT. 1, 1943

CALENDAR

Rosh Hashonah	Sept. 30
Yom Kippur	Oct. 9
Succoth	Oct. 14-19
Yiskor	Oct. 21
Simchas Torah	Oct. 22
Chanukah	Dec. 22

The editor's chair,

With no reflection on the oratorical ability of Lewis Sutin, very capable president of District Grand Lodge No. 2 of B'nai B'rith, the logic of discontinuing the present custom of an annual speaking exhibition by the president before each lodge becomes quite irrefutable.

When a president who can deliver a stirring oration like Mr. Sutin comes along, all well and good, but what of the more frequent times when the president is merely a good executive who guides the destinies of the lodges in his eight states expertly, but whose speech-making cannot compare with that of Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver. The same speaking tour is held, and the poor attendances because of past disappointments with the speaking ability of the previous presidents, results.

There is nothing inconsistent with receptions for the visiting president. Then instead of devoting so much time to preparing and delivering his speech, the president can spend some time with lodge officials thrashing out their local problems, and generally giving the lodges the benefit of his wisdom and experience.

A few years ago a man who was considered excellent timber for the office of president of the District was dropped because he spoke with an accent. This was an unfortunate incident as everyone realized, but nothing was done to correct the situation.

The president of the District should be a man who by his work in the Order has proven his right to lead the largest District in the Supreme Grand Lodge. That he is or isn't a good speaker, has nothing to do with his selection, and the artificial criterion which this speaking ability has set up, is completely out of reason.

Mishawake Synagogue

MISHAWAKA— Rosh Hashanah services will be conducted Wednesday evening, Sept. 29, and on Thursday and Friday, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1. Cantor Meyer Hannick of South Bend will chant the prayers, and a student from the Hebrew Theological College of Chicago will deliver the sermons.

Now The Time To Raise Building Fund

DOTTING THE NATION'S Jewish communities, drives for building funds with which to construct new congregations are springing up and meeting with unprecedented success.

Held back from building during the depression days, these congregations whose present physical facilities have long been outgrown, are raising the funds under an arrangement that works out so well that the congregations have been surprised at the ease of their task.

All monies raised are immediately put into War Bonds. After the war, the building will be constructed. This accomplishes a double purpose, that of the patriotic motive of providing funds for our government now, and the laudable purpose of providing building projects for after the war. When added to this is the religious appeal, then the success of these drives are all the more understandable.

A local case in point is the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation. At one time some ten years ago a building fund was projected, but fell through under the impact of the depression. So The Post suggests respectfully, in view of the present favorable circumstances that a new drive be started, which unless Indianapolis all of a sudden loses its sense of responsibility, will undoubtedly meet with the success it deserves.

No Editorial Admonition Required

THE AMBITIOUS PLANS of the Indianapolis lodge of B'nai B'rith to make October as B'nai B'rith Blood Bank Month a resounding success, are no doubt being duplicated throughout the state, where in each community the B'nai B'rith lodge is undertaking the responsizility of seeing that every eligible Jew makes a visit to the blood bank during that month.

No editorial admonition, except this reminder should be required and The Post intends to give none. Follow the instructions you will receive either from B'nai B'rith or some organization of which you are a member, and if you have not visited the blood bank before, let this extra urge of the B'nai B'rith sponsorship move you to do your patriotic duty now.

What The Community Desreves

THE STAFF of the Jewish Post is happy to take this occasion to extend best wishes for a happy New Year to the Jewish community of Indiana. More so than most publications, The Post has been close to its readers, and hopes that in the future it will be able to be of more service to this finest Jewish community anywhere in the United States.

The theme of The Post has long been that Indiana because of the high type of its Jewish leadership and the high level of understanding of its Jewish citizenry, warrants a publication of corresponding merit.

That The Post is far from that goal goes without saying. The funds our growing circle of readers and growing number of advertisers provide us with, will all be put right back into the paper in the form of improvements and additions in our editorial department and more pages each week.

Current Comment

Jewish Havens Commented Upon by American Jewish Outlook — The search for Jewish havens has degenerated inot each country suggesting that other countries are ideal havens. The Agro-Joint and the Refugee Economic Corporation have explored the possibilities of settlement in Alaska, Angola, Australia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, China, Cuba, Lower California, New Zealand and Peru. In addition, Mindanao, the southernmost island of the Phillipine group, and Bolivia have been considered. Then, too, the Augda Israel has held conversations with the Ethiopian Minister on the possibilities of settling Jews in Abyssinia. Haile Selassie has already made some gifts to the Jewish community and has several Jews as state advisers.

Unfortunately, however, anti-Semitism seems to grow as quickly as each new haven is mentioned. While the victory of the United Nations will help to cut off the source of Nazi-inspired anti-Semitism, there will still be a hard victory to be won. The solution does not lie in segregating Jews on some island or some bleak piece of ground that no one happens to want at the moment. To the extent that the return of peace will allow some of them to settle back in the lands of their birth, the problem will be helped. But there must be established the principle that Jews can settle anywhere like anyone else. To subscribe to anything less than this is to subscribe to the principles that underlie the Nazi concept of the inferiority of the Jew. This applies to Palestine as well. There should not be a quota against Jews settling in the Holy Land. The tolerance of this principle by the nations which supported the Balfour Declaration is responsible for much of the suffering that the Jews have been forced to endure in Europe.

Bond Sales at Holiday Services urged by the American Jewish Outlook of Pittsburgh— Shortly before Rosh Hashonah last year, youth leader Abraham Butler, who is now in uniform, was impressed with the idea that just as Haym Salomon interrupted the Day of Atonement service to raise money to save our young nation, so we might set aside one of the High Holy Days and allow an appeal for the sale of United States Government Bonds. Such attempts as he made to interest various groups bore no fruit, possibly because there was not enough time and possibly because annual appeals for particular purposes have a sort of right of way.

We were reminded of this opportunity for emphasizing the Jew in American life and repeating the success of Haym Salomon by a recent editorial in the Indianapolis Jewish Post. The $15,000,000,000 appeal will be at its height during September and will still need our best efforts on September 30th when Rosh Hashonah comes.

We urge our rabbis and synagogue leaders to consider the possibility of using the sermon period for this purpose. It should not be undertaken unless it will prove successful. Properly organized, however, it will prove successful. Properly pursued, it will lend decorum to the religious service rather than detract from it. Let the matter be considered.

ROME — Ludoviki Mortara, president of the Central Court of Justice, who is Jewish, has been replaced by Commadore Damelio Mariani, a Catholic, by orders of Mussolini. According to the press, Il Duce took this step in an attempt to obtain a reconciliation with the Vatican.

MOSCOW — An indication that the Soviet government's attitude towards religion is changing is seen here in the fact that no attempt, either by official or quasi-official groups, was made to interfere with the recent Rosh Hashonah services. The only complaints were those voiced to the authorities by some of the worshippers at the high prices charged by the synagogues for seats.

BERLIN — German Jewry is facing one of the mose severe crises in its history, according to information available here. Reports from Munich say that anti-Semitic agitation there has reached new heights, with violent anti-Jewish posters on view in the streets. Informed observers feel that if the present government fails and Adolph Hitler, the Bavarian Fascist leader, takes power, severe persecutions will be visited upon the Jews.

BUDAPEST — "Anep," organ of the Fascist "Awakening Magyars," publishes a story to the effect that Otto Kahn told the Hungarian authorities that his banking firms would not join in any loan to the Hungarian government unless it took steps to stop the discrimination against Jews. The paper warns that if Hungary suffers because it is refused a loan on the basis of its anti-Semitic activities, the Jews will be massacred.

Praises Dr. Klatzkin's Book

"So colorful and brilliant a collection of aphorisms has not been published since Nietzsche. "In Praise of Wisdom" is the work of a man with deep knowledge of life and soul whose diction is lucid and kindly, and who has counsel, enlightment and consolation to offer to many." These are the words of Thomas Mann on Dr. Jacob Klatzkin's newest book, translated from the Hebrew, to be published Sept. 21 by L. B. Fischer Publishing Co.

Henry Monsky, noted leader in the communal affairs of American Jewry and president of B'nai B'rith, has become a national sponsor of the American Red Mogen Dovid for Palestine.

A meeting of the Executive Board of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations to consider the attitude of the Union toward the resolutions adopted by the American Jewish Conference has been called for Sunday, Oct. 3.

The newly appointed house committee of the Sisterhood includes the Mesdames Sol Levenberg, J. A. Krevitz and Sam Swartz. Mrs. Irving Given, chairman of bond sales.

News of Gary Social Life— Miss Elsie Zemel underwent a major operation Thursday at the Methodist Hospital and is reported to be doing well . . . Miss Evelyn Rosen is confined in her home by illness . . . Mrs. Albert Weinstein spent the week-end in Indianapolis visiting her husband, Pvt. Al Weinstein, who was inducted into the armed forces this past Wednesday . . . Miss Annette Chaikin is visiting her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Levitt, of Pittsburg . . . Sgt. Irving Sheer was home on furlough visiting his parents.

Announce Engagement Of Beatrice Simon To Bomber Pilot

Special

TERRE HAUTE — Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Simon announce the engagement of their daughter Beatrice to Lt. David Becker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Becker. Lt. Becker is pilot of a B24 Bomber, located at Biggs Field, El Paso, Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Abe Newman and children, Florence and Herbert, spent a week with Mr. Newman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Newman, 1455 S. First.

New Years Resolutions

generously support not only with my means, but also with my personal service, all religious, educational and charitable institutions with which I am affiliated. When called upon for relief campaigns, gratitude for the blessings I am now enjoying in this country shall move me to put my shoulders to the wheel and afford help to the needy at home and to the sufferers abroad.

I firmly resolve that my conduct and relationship to my fellowmen will be such that I will demonstrate the three character traits by which the children of Abraham are known, namely, mercy, humility and charity, and both in private as well as in public life, I will try to reflect credit upon the Jew.

I firmly believe that if I carry out these resolutions I will derive happiness and satisfaction throughout the New Year.

New Year Messages

courage and numbers and are awakening from the lethargy of decades and are becoming more militant and its cause more dynamic. Apathy plus ignorance are still plaguing the religious and cultural life of the American Jew. Our youth still drifts aimlessly searching for false gods to worship and pay homage. Jewish homes are still minus form and content and materialism is still the dominant motivating force in our lives. This fused scene of progress and regress, amelioration and deterioration we behold as we view the past—at which we must not tarry but hasten to penetrate the future.

We must not permit our plight to dishearten and discourage us but, as well, we must not permit our small gains and the seeming dawn of a brighter day to lull us into a false security and smug and satisfied complacency. It is imperative that we strain all our energies, individually and collectively, to hasten the day of victory and peace—thus terminating bloodshed; and making it possible for us to grapple with the weighty problems that will confront us then. Greater still must be our union of forces enabling us to cope with the overwhelming tasks of reconstructing the Jewish post-war world. Zionist activities must be accelerated since the struggle for Zion demands it and wandering Jewry has need of it. An all out effort must be launched to banish ignorance and indifference from Jewish life through the channels of the synagogue, classroom and home; thus salvaging our youth and granting them a philosophy of life with proper perspective.

This is the path we must travel before we can hear the small quiet voice giving promise of peace and tranquility to Israel. We are the voice, let us make it audible.

Louisville Leader Joins Frisch For Conference Report

Charles Strull, prominent Jewish civic leader of Louisville, Ky., and that city's delegate to the American Jewish Conference will share the program with Dan Frisch for the report meeting of B'nai B'rith set for 8 p. m. next Wednesday at Kirshbaum Center. The meeting is open to the public, and one of the largest crowds in the history of B'nai B'rith is expected to attend.

In announcing Mr. Strull's appearance, Dave Cook, president of the lodge, pointed out that the city would now be enabled to hear as fine a report as has been presented to any city. "In view of the unprecedented interest in the Conference," Mr. Cook added, "the Indianapolis lodge of B'nai B'rith is proud to be able to invite the city to hear what went on at this historic meeting."

On Lodge Program

CHARLES STRULL

Also on the program is a concert by the Beth El Choir of seventeen voices, directed by Janet Roskin, with Evelyn Borofsky Roskin at the piano.

Named To Annapolis

Special

WORCESTER, MASS. — Seymour L. Kunin became the first Jewish boy in the history of Worcester to receive an appointment to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis following announcement to that effect last week. He is the son of Parks Commissioner and Mrs. Samuel H. Kunin. The appointment was made by Pehr G. Holmes, Congressman from the 4th District.

Mrs. Herman Kaufman and daughter who were here several days with Mrs. Kaufman's mother, Mrs. Florence Snewind of the Marott Hotel, have returned to Zanesville, O.

Mrs. Herbert Falender and husband had as a recent weekend guest Mrs. Falender's brother, Lt. Edward Lowenstein, from Camp Davis, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Brooks came Sunday recently to visit with their daughter, Mrs. Theodore Dann and their grandchild, Dixie Dann. Mrs. Brooks returned home Tuesday.

Drive Leaders Say 20% Larger Gifts War Fund Need

Need for increased giving to the United War Fund campaign which begins its city-wide drive on Oct. 25 was stressed this week by Jewish Welfare Fund leaders in a letter to the Jewish community. The JWF which is an affiliate of the United War Fund will receive $170,000 for local, national and overseas needs. In accepting the recommendation of the Jewish Welfare Fund Budget Committee, W. C. Griffith, president of the United War Fund stated that "While this sum ($170,000) represents about 15 per cent more than was actually raised in Indianapolis by the Jewish Welfare Fund in its last campaign, we recognize clearly the great burden which has been placed upon Jewish agencies as a result of Nazi oppression abroad."

Jewish Welfare Fund leaders emphasized in a New Year's statement that giving will have to be increased approximately 20 per cent if the War Fund is to meet the budget for Jewish causes.

Increased funds will be needed to provide immediate aid to hundreds of thousands of Jews in territory free from the shadow of the Axis and help to those who have endured ten years of Hitlerism. At the same time there are new possibilties for the rescue of thousands of Jewish children in North Africa, Russia and the Balkans who have been orphaned or separated from their parents by the war and Nazi persecution.

Kosher Kitchen Drive Gaining

ON THE RECORD

IS THINKING DANGEROUS?

By DOROTHY THOMPSON
(Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

AMONG JOURNALISTS and radio commentators there is considerable dismay over C. B. S.'s new policy of "not opinionating the news." C. B. S. has instructed all members of their news staff, including sponsored commentators, to refrain from expressions of editorial opinion. Paul W. White, representing management, says that these broadcasters have been selected "because of background, knowledge, insight, clarity of thought, and special ability to make themselves understood," but that they must not tell the public "what they themselves think and what the public should think." They are not, he says, "privileged to crusade, to harangue the people, or attempt to sway public opinion!"

IT'S A LONG WAY from saying what you think, and conducting a crusade or haranguing the public. Crusaders and haranguers seldom stay on the air for long because the public doesn't like them, and what the public doesn't like brings in no contracts. To ban all editorial comment is another matter altogether. Mr. White justifies this on the ground that there are only a limited number of wave lengths, and that "a powerful and one-sided position on serious issues could be created by a small group of broadcasters."

"The threat of such unbalanced power is inimical to a democratic and free radio and democracy itself," he concludes with pontifical solemnity.

SINCE THE PRESS, at least, is still free for opinions, let's consider Mr. White's opinions.

He quotes with pride a comment by "Time" that C. B. S. news programs are "the most adult on the air."

I am inclined to agree with Time that the C. B. S. galaxy of commentators is probably the most brilliant of any network's. Ned Calmer, George Fielding Eliot, Ed Murrow, Cecil Brown, Bill Shirer, Quincy Howe, Bob Trout, and the others all are different in temperament, opinion, and voice, but they are all men of "insight and clarity of thought." And it is these men who have created for C. B. S. the prestige of which it boasts.

But they have not created it by withholding from the public what they think. None of them "harangues," but they all express opinions regarding the news, its significance, meaning, and its relation to public issues. If C. B. S. is not buying their capacities to think and to form opinions out of "background, knowledge, insight, and clarity of thought," what in the world is it buying? Anybody can read the news off a ticker tape, and many can assemble the bare news into presentable form, but the function of these men is to tell the public what the news reveals concerning where we are at and going. And that is a matter of opinion.

It will probably be argued that I am not personally distinterested in this discussion, since I am a radio commentator, from time to time myself. I can only answer that what C. B. S. wants commentators to do is a cinch beside what we try to do—namely to think while we read the news, and tell the public what we think. Every time we do it we risk our reputations. It's easier to earn one's living by parrotting off the bare facts.

But, quite impersonally, I am appalled by Mr. White's arguments because of the fear they reveal of disinterested thought and intellectual leadership. It is not the "privilege" he argues, of men of "background, knowledge, insight, and clarity of thought" to influence public opinion. Who then should influence public opinion? Only politicians, party machines, business men and their promotion experts?

I should say it was the public duty of men such as Mr. White's broadcasters, to convey their thoughts to the public. For what have they trained themselves, in many years of travel, study, contact with leading persons, mastery of foreign languages, study in special fields? These men have no financial nor political power or ambition. None of them is running for public office or trying to stay in it. They can influence the public only through knowledge, reason, and logic. They and the independent writers are, in fact, almost the only disinterested pens and voices reaching the public at all. And all that supports them in the long run, is a record for having been right oftener than wrong.

BUT, SAYS MR. WHITE they might build up a powerful one-sided opinion. Now, really! Mr. White's own broadcasters are republicans and democrats, liberals and conservatives. They have only one thing in common: knowledge and intelligence. They are in competition with each other for the ear of the public. The F. C. C. has investigated the broadcasting companies on charges of monopoly but never the commentators. If perchance they should all agree on any single serious issue the presumption would be overwhelmingly in favor of their being right. Why shouldn't the public know it?

In the end the public, with the chance to listen to all of them decides every issue. It is not nearly so easily influenced as Mr. White fears. And if he actually carries through his program and reduces his first-class thinking staff to hacks he will lose his listeners. For the public likes to hear opinions about the news—if for no other reason than the luxury of disagreeing with them.

Editor's Note: The Jewish Post buys all of Dorothy Thompson's syndicated columns, of which she writes three a week, but naturally prints the one it feels best suited for its readers.

Temple Repaid For Use Of Building With Bible

Special

Mrs. Rine To Install Auxiliary Officers

Special

SOUTH BEND—Mrs. Aaron M. Rine will conduct the installation of officers of the Hebrew Institute Ladies Auxiliary, and address the group at their next meeting to be held at 2:00 p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 5, at the Institute. The officers to be installed are: Mrs. Philip Frank, president; Mrs. Arthur Scheer, vice president; Mrs. Joseph Tomber, recording secretary; Mrs. Abe Rifkin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Harry Cohen, financial secretary; and Mrs. Max Speigel, treasurer. The officers will serve as hostesses at the tea which will follow the meeting.

The first affair of the season will be a card party to be held on Sunday evening, Oct. 10 at the Institute. Mrs. Alex Minkow is chairman, and Mrs. Harry Zoss is co-chairman.

Hadassah Hears Reports and Speech

Special

SOUTH BEND — The South Bend Chapter of Hadassah held its first formal meeting of the season Monday at the Hebrew Institute, at which Mrs. Philip Oestreicher, chairman of the picnic held this summer, reported a total of $300 clear profit. The Child Welfare campaign has been launched, it was reported, and the quota already met, according to Mrs. Sam Berman, and her co-chairman, Mrs. Jack Kohen, whose novel idea was responsible for the success of the drive.

Mrs. Aaron M. Rine, American Affairs chairman, gave the monthly report, and Rabbi Stephen Sherman was the guest speaker.

South Bend JWB To Meet Tuesday

Special

SOUTH BEND—A meeting of the Jewish Welfare Board will be held at 8 p. m. on Tuesday, Oct. 5 at Temple Beth El. Mrs. Adolph R. Klein, of Chicago, sister of Mrs. Henry Lowenstine, who heads the group, will be the guest speaker. Mrs. Klein is the chairman of the United Jewish Charities of Chicago, Women's Division, and is on the committee for the Serve a Camp Library for Alaska.

Unveiling

Rose Samuels

A monument will be unveiled to the memory of Rose Samuels at 1:30 o'clock Sunday, Oct. 3 at the Knesses Israel Cemetery. Rabbi David Shapiro will officiate. Friends and relatives are invited to attend.

L. L. GOODMAN CONCERNED BY ATTITUDE OF COMMUNITY ON WAR FUND

To the editor,

I am greatly concerned over the attitude of some of our Jewish people in connection with the coming United War Fund Campaign from which the Jewish Welfare Fund and the Jewish Federation are to get a sum of around $225,000.00.

I know that all of our folks are going to want to do the right thing and will do it as they certainly do not want non-Jewish contributors to the War Fund to be paying for the Jewish charities that we have always maintained ourselves.

But what I am concerned about is the fact that many of our people have no conception of the facts that the needs for Jewish charities today particularly the United Jewish Appeal is greater than ever and when I approached one man the other day on the subject, he said to me, "What do you need all of the money for?"

Well, it didn't take him five minutes to learn that the facts are that more money is needed today than even last year and that, furthermore, every Jewish Community in the United States, without exception, is giving more money to the United Jewish Appeal, for example, this year, than ever before.

It hadn't occurred to this man that as fast as the Allies take over territory formerly held by Germany and Italy, such as North Africa, for example, that it means a release of a large number of Jews who have been in concentration camps of one degree or another and that now we have those poor souls on our hands to help give relief to and to try and give them a fresh start in life.

Furthermore, the more territory that our Allied armies recapture, the greater will be our need and the greater will be our opportunity to be of help to our people who are being rescued.

The reason I say that I am concerned is that simply because we have not had a Jewish Welfare Campaign this year in the usual maner—many of our people are not acquainted with the continued urgency of the situation.

For example, the Joint Distribution Committee has already spent in the first eight months of this year, $6,496,200.00 on their relief, rescue and rehabilitation program. And the Palestine agencies in the first six months of this year have spent $6,163,102.-00 or $2,000,000.00 more than they did last year in the same six months.

Anyone who is acquainted with these facts cannot help being impressed, not only with the urgency of the need, but also with the fact that the money being raised actually is being spent.

Early this year, before we announced our Interim Campaign for the Welfare Fund, you ran an editorial saying that many people felt that the Interim Campaign would be a flop because, unless we had the fanfare we wouldn't raise the money. I answered you at that time and said that I did not believe that that would be so—that I had confidence in our people cooperating on the Interim Campaign without having to be hit over the head with fanfare in order to extract money from them. At that time I said that all of our people need, in order to cause them to give liberally, is to know that the money is actually needed and is being wisely spent.

I am pleased to tell you that now that the Interim Campaign is over with that almost without exception, every contributor cooperated beautifully and with the exception of the money we lost from those in the armed forces, or removed from the city, or through deaths, we raised all of the money that we expected to raise in the Interim Campaign and we were enabled to continue every agency in our budget on the same basis for this last six months' Interim Period as they were on in the previous fiscal year.

That is a record that our Indianapolis people can be proud of and is a tribute to their generosity.

Now, however, in coming to the United War Fund Campaign, we must remember that the Jewish Welfare Fund and the Jewish Federation jointly are going to receive approximately $225,000.00 which is an increase of about $20,000.00 more than these agencies previously received, either from the Jewish Welfare Campaign and from the Community Fund allocation, so if we Jews are going to want to do our part it means that the least we should expect from anyone is a contribution to the War Fund that will be no less than he gave to the War Fund and Welfare Funds, separately last year.

For us to do our full share, however, by meeting the increased needs that we have asked the War Fund to supply us money for, we must get increases and contributions wherever it is possible to do so and I feel confident that under the present war conditions, the generosity of our Jewish Community will not be found wanting.

CALLS WOMEN WHO PLAY CARDS 'DRONES'; SAYS THEY OUGHT TO BE ASHAMED

To the editor,

Received The Post without which I felt lost, really. I surely appreciate and would like to commend, if I may, your courageous editorial, "Give Up Bridge, Mah Jong—GET TO WORK."

After the ordeal of mobilizing volunteer aid for war efforts, may I say from experience, it isn't enough for "My Lady Fair" to go to Red Cross about twice a month, (if she does at all). There is small excuse even for young mothers of young babies not finding some niche wherein to serve some of the time when so many of our boys have had to give up everything, all of the time.

Certainly then, matured women who profess to have at heart the welfare of their boys in the service should find it imperative to give every possible aid to back these boys so that the fatalities shall not be prolonged even hours longer than absolutely necessary to achieve the victory we're all fighting for.

How can the drones who profit by the labor and effort of hard working willing civilians have the effrontery to go gadding about or clutter up the remaining doctors' offices with their imaginary ills when they should buckle down to give service somewhere along the line. It isn't enough to give sons to the service. Hard work is the proof of affection for thesse sons, friends and acquaintances in the service.

With only about 5 per cent of our women devoting hard-pressed time and laborious service, parasites should be ashamed to be inactive. Perhaps some of these 5 per cent are as delicate and unaccustomed to continuous toil as the shirkers. But they continue to give almost superhuman effort and constant devotion to the war effort while not neglecting other welfare activities either.

Need Told for War Record of Jews

To the editor,

In The Jewish Post of Aug. 20, we note on page one, a statement which the Bureau of War Records submitted to you for publication.

May we take this opportunity of thanking you most sincerely for your very helpful cooperation on this matter. We know it will help tremendously and we hope that in future issues of your publication you will continue calling the attention of your readers to the importance of supplying us with information regarding all men in the service, on enlistments, decorations and casualties.

Of course where you have a local committee compiling data, the records should be cleared through the local committee at the same time that they are submitted to us.

DAVID TURTELTAUB.
National Jewish Welfare Bd,
New York, N. Y.

Editor's Note: The Post does not print letters of thanks, although it appreciates them. This letter, then, is being printed because it tells about the job that the Jewish Welfare Board is trying to do throughout the nation in compiling a factual record of Jewish participation in the armed forces. In the large cities throughout Indiana, local Army and Navy Committees of the Jewish Welfare Board, which are a part of the State Committee headed by L. L. Goodman, compile these records, but in the smaller communities, only such a listing as is being printed elsewhere in this issue, will make it possible to get the names from these towns. Readers therefore are asked to scan the list referred to carefully and, where a name they know about is missing, are asked to send it in with wherever possible the name of the parents and their address. Even in the large cities, readers are asked to do the same thing, because although there is a committee for this in their community, that committee cannot operate successfully without everyone's cooperation, and often for one reason or another a name is overlooked.

Mrs. Max Cohen and daughter of New York City are guests of Mrs. Cohen's brother, Sam Beck, and Mrs. Beck.

Cigarette Fund To Be Aided By Yom Kippur Dance

A large box for contributions to The Jewish Post cigarette fund will be placed at the entrance to the Riley Room when Junior Hadassah presents its annual Yom Kippur Night Dance, Saturday, Oct. 9.

Advance sale of tickets indicate one of the largest crowds in the eight year history of the dance, Jeanette Smith, president of the organization announced this week. Ralph Lillard and his orchestra will furnish the music. Tickets may be purchased from any Junior Hadassah member.

Four Yoshas Now Serve; Also Son-in-Law, Mother

The recent induction of Nelson Yosha, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Yosha, 1114 S. Capital into the army brings the number of sons of the Yoshas in the army to four. They also have a son-in-law, Lt. Jake Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Morris, 1125 Union St., in the army. The other boys are Pvt. Sam, in active service in the Pacific area, Pfc. Albert, stationed in South Carolina, and Sgt. Jake Yosha, in Texas. Mrs. Yosha is said to be outstandingly active in Red Cross and Hadassah sewing work.

Organizations Being Lined Up For Blood Banks

Responses from organizations who are being scheduled for certain days during October at the Blood Bank as part of the drive of the Indianapolis Lodge of B'nai B'rith, have been very enheartening, Sid Mahalowitz, chairman of the blood bank committee announced this week.

The need for additional donors was stressed by blood bank officials who pointed out that the daily quota of 200 pints was not even being half met.

So far five destroyers and three Liberty Ships have been named after Jewish patriots. The Liberty Ships carry the names of Louis Marshall, Samuel Gompers and Haym Solomon. The destroyers are named after Jewish heroes in the navy, three of whom have fallen in the present war in the Pacific. These three are Lt. Ira Jeffery of Minneapolis, Ensign Robert Leopold of Louisville, Ky.; and Ensign Daniel Seid of Brooklyn, N. Y. The records of their heroic deeds will be made public only when the war is over, but the fact that the U.S. Navy has found it fiting to name fighting ships in their memory speaks for itself. The other two Jews after whom destroyers have been named recently are Commodore Uriah P. Levy and Captain John Ordroneaux who did no small service in the War of 1812.

Mrs. Charles Karsch, 5733 N. Delaware, has returned from a two-week's trip to New York. She accompanied her daughter, Jacqueline, back to the American School of Ballet where she is a student.

Congregation Loses 2nd Rabbi To War

Special

CHICAGO — North Shore Congregation, which only recently gave its spiritual leader, Rabbi Charles Shulman to the Navy as a chaplain, now has given up its second rabbi to the service, for probably a record among congregations in the United States. North Shore's second rabbi to enter the service is Richard C. Hertz. The congregation secured a new occupant for its pulpit when the United Hebrew Congregation of St. Louis, generously sents its Assistant Rabbi James A. Wax, to them three days after he had been rejected by the army for physical causes.

NEW JEWISH HEROES OF THE NEW YEAR

Lt. Pincus Philip Taback is shown with a friend who admires his Distinguished Flying Cross. A fighter pilot, Lt. Taback often went on bombing raids to escort, among others, the B-17 upon which Sgt. Schiller Cohen was a gunner.

Sgt. Harold Cantor has flown on a total of 138 bombing raids against the Japs. He is personally credited with nine Zeros. After almost two years of combat duty, he has returned to the United States on furlough.

Maj. Carl J. Lichter, in an unarmed commercial plane, escaped Jap Zeros during the bombing of Clark Field, Hawaii. At Bataan he fought the Japs on the ground and later, from bases in Australia, he fought the Japs in the air on 76 operational missions.

(Pictures and Story by National Jewish Welfare Board)

Sgt. Schiller Cohen, recently hailed as New York's most decorated airman, is shown here on his return from Africa in the office of the Jewish Welfare Board. The letter he is writing is to acknowledge the reception given him at New Yorks City Hall by Acting Mayor Newbold Morris.

Tail Gunner's Heroism — Story of Staff Sgt. Cohen

By BEN SAMUEL

THE NORTH POLE IS A TORRID little spot compared to the climate you run into when you're four miles above the ground in a B-17. Staff Sgt. Schiller Cohen found that out, and it nearly cost him his life.

Sgt. Cohen, who is a tail gunner, was home recently in New York City for a brief furlough. For his work on bombing missions—52 of them, all, he admits, "pretty tough jobs"—he has earned the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal, ten Oak Leaf Clusters, a squadron citation, and half a dozen commendations.

The toughest mission of them all, the one which included the little run-in with the weather, took place during the opening of the campaign against Italy. The target was Palermo.

It was hot that day at Cohen's base in North Africa. But as Cohen's ship, the Fortress Stinky, got into the air, and started to climb as it headed toward Palermo, it grew steadily colder. Cohen, crouched in his tail position, made sure his electric suit plug was attached.

Trouble came at them as they circled the coast of Sicily—trouble in the shape of 50 enemy planes. There were no American fighters with them on this trip. Cohen and the other gunners were kept busy keeping the enemy planes off.

They fought all the way to the target. Finally, they reached Palermo. And just as they got there, 30 more fighters came up.

With the 80 fighters harassing them, the American bombers began their runs. Suddenly Cohen saw the bomber on his ship's right wing, the Yankee Doodle, get a blast. Shell fire raked the tail, almost smashing it apart from the rest of the ship. It hung by a hair.

The tail gunner aboard the Yankee Doodle parachuted out. The ship began to go down toward the water. Cohen called his pilot and

CAPT. BERKOWITZ HONORED AT LOWRY FIELD; MEN PRESENT CHAPLAIN'S FLAG

Special

TERRE HAUTE — Chaplain Sidney M. Berkowitz, recently promoted to the rank of captain, was honored again early this month when he rose to give his weekly sermon. The popular Jewish chaplain was interrupted by a color guard advancing down the aisle. Alongside the American banner came the new chaplain's flag, presented by the Jewish enlisted men of Lowry Field, Denver, Col.

The silk flag, of regimental size, has embroidered upon its blue background a white replica of the Ten Commandments with the Star of David directly above. This is the standard army insignia and is worn by all Jewish chaplains upon their collars. This flag is one of the few in the possession of chaplains throughout the service and, as far as Chaplain Berkowitz knows, is the only one presented solely by the enlisted men.

Chaplain Berkowitz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Berkowitz and the grandson of Mrs. M. Berkowitz.

Returns to Lowry

Lt. Eugene Kollinger has returned to Lowry Field, Denver, Col., after spending his furlough here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Kollinger, 1218 S. Meridian Street.

COMMISSIONER LANDIS AVERTS CRISIS IN ST. LOUIS JEWISH COMMUNITY

Special

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—A crisis in the St. Louis Jewish community seems to have been averted in the decision of Commissioner Kenesaw Landis to play the first world series game on Sunday, Oct. 10.

At least that is the opinion of the Bulletin of Temple Israel here. Commenting on the possibility of the scheduling of the opening game on Saturday, Oct. 9, which is Yom Kippur, the Bulletin had this to say: "St. Louis baseball fans who had planned to go to the World Series must have noted, with considerable discomfort, the fact that the World Series dates this year might conflict with the Day of Atonement. More than one pious soul must

Taxay Returns To Pulpit After Service as Chaplain

Special

TERRE HAUTE—Rabbi J. Mashall Taxay occupied the pulpit Friday night at Temple Israel. His subject was "Does God Believe in You?" A social hour followed the services honoring the return of the Rabbi from his assignment as chaplain at Camp Van Dorn, Miss.

TAIL GUNNER'S HEROISM--THE STORY OF STAFF SERGT. SCHILLER COHEN

told him about it, and the Stinky went down to follow the Yankee Doodle and protect it.

A group of enemy fighters came at them as they went down. German fighter planes are always on the lookout for hit planes, because they made easier targets.

Cohen looked out of his tail window and saw four of them coming at the waist position. He got on the interphone and called Staff Sgt. Frank Hayes, who manned the guns in the waist. There was no answer. He called again, and then a third time, frantically. Still no answer. He saw that the waist guns weren't firing.

Something had happened to Hayes. Cohen waited until the tail position was clear. Then he disconnected his electric suit plug, disconnected his oxygen tank and took up a portable bottle. Slowly he began to crawl to the waist.

He found Hayes lying on the floor. The waist gunner was unconscious, his face blue. Cohen felt around for wounds or blood, and found none. Immediately he knew what had happened.

The waist position is the coldest in the ship. Two windows are left open to allow easy maneuvering of guns, and icy wind pours in continuously. It is so cold that perspiration freezes inside the oxygen mask, and the waist gunner has to reach up and break the ice every few seconds. But if he gets into heavy fighting, and just hasn't the time to reach up and break the ice, his oxygen stops coming through and he falls unconscious. If no one comes along to help him, he stays that way—permanently.

Cohen went to work. His hands and feet had begun to freeze as soon as he entered the waist. He removed Hayes' oxygen mask, put a fresh one on him, and turned the oxygen on full blast. Hayes began to recover.

By the time Hayes was fully recovered, Cohen's hands and feet had frozen completely. There was no sensation in them, feeling as though they had disappeared. He found it difficult to move, and he had to drag himself back to the tail, his legs twisted under him.

He tried to attach the electric suit plug, but just as he got to the tail, five enemy fighters came at him. He forgot about the plug and began to fight them off.

He was so cold now that he could hardly move. He fought four of them away, but the fifth kept coming. Cohen continued to fire, but the plane kept coming. Cohen realized what that meant. The plane was being flown by a suicide pilot, bent on crashing into the Fortress in the hope that he'd bring it down with him.

Once before that had happened to a plane in Cohen's squadron, and the tail gunner had saved himself by getting out of the tail just before the crash. But Cohen couldn't do that. He couldn't move.

Then, in a last desperate move, he placed his frozen hands on his triggers and fired a hundred rounds. Bullets smashed into the enemy plane and killed the pilot, knocking him onto his controls. The plane twisted and went careening toward the ground.

A bad fright wasn't the only thing Cohen got for this trip. His heroism on the Palermo mission was what won him the Distinguished Flying Cross.

GOOD WILL IN ACTION IN PAST YEAR TOLD

How Jews, Non-Jews Helped One Another Many Times Described

By BERNARD POSTAL
B'nai B'rith Publicity Director

THAT America was able to withstand the locust swarm of hate and bigotry that helped destroy so many countries in the last decade is due in no small way to the steady growth of inter-faith good will and understanding. Of the many varieties of good will, the best and most useful is the species, which for lack of a better name, may be called good will in action, or the kind which converts inter-faith speeches, resolutions and mass meetings into what President Roosevelt has aptly termed "the practice of brotherhood," which he said "in this critical hour in our own and the world's history, we, as Americans, need more than armaments and armies to make safe our democracy."

Although periods of national emergency often exacerbate existing prejudices, the mobilization of the nation for all-out war has contributed substantially to the growth of good will in action. Nowhere has this development been more marked than among the armed forces who know that one of the things they are fighting for is "the practice of brotherhood."

Last Christmas thousands of non-Jewish soldiers and sailors slated for routine duties, including K. P., during the holiday, were given an unexpected respite when Jewish enlisted men volunteered for duty so that those of Christian faith could get time off. During passover the non-Jewish men returned the favor, thus symbolizing the complete understanding that exists between religious groups in the armed forces.

Practical operation of real democracy was also evident in the frequent examples of Christian chaplains and churches helping to organize Jewish religious services for Jews in the armed forces. Reports to the Jewish welfare Board from its field men and chaplains are rich in dramatic stories of this kind of good will in action. One of the most striking of these incidents happened last passover at Lawton, Oklahoma. The Seder candelabra came from the Masonic Lodge. Y. W. C. A. ladies joined with the Jewish

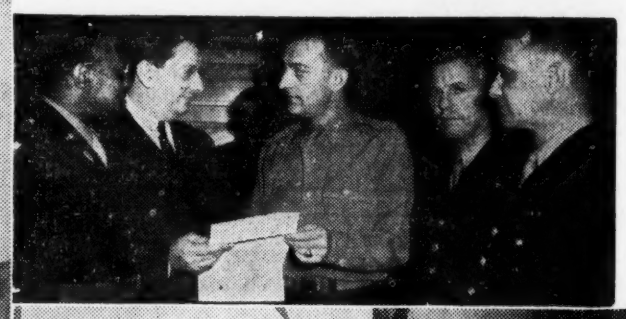
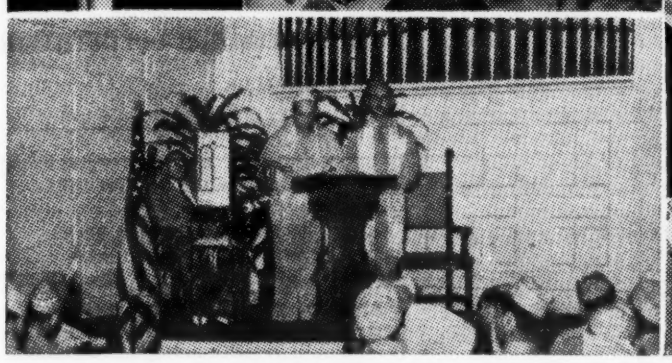
B'nai B'rith War Service Produces Good Will in Action





(UPPER LEFT)—Comfort kits and Christmas gift packs for troops in Alasaka are turned over by B'nai B'rith Women to Father Hubbard, Glacier Priest, who flew them to the Far North in time for holiday distribution.

(UPPER RIGHT)—Representatives of Catholics, Jews, Protestants and Negroes participate in dedication of a B'nai B'rith-equipped recreation room for the Army to underscore the fact that these facilities are for men of all faiths and races and colors.

(LOWER LEFT)—All creeds make possible Seder for Jewish servicemen. This Passover observance at Lawton, Okla., was held in a Methodist Church, with the help of Catholics, Masons, American Legion, Y. W. C. A. and Jewish townspeople, with the JWB providing the funds and matzoth.

(LOWER RIGHT)—Negro Servicemen's Center furnished by B'nai B'rith as part of its national war service program underscores good will in action. Of the 500 recreation facilities for the armed forces equipped by B'nai B'rith more than 20 have been for the use of colored troops.

Release Time Plan Approved in Chelsea Where Nearly Half of Population Jewish

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

CHELSEA, Mass.—After debates and conferences with the local clergy which extended over a period of months, the Chesea school committee went on record as favoring the one-hour release time plan whereby pupils in the public schools will be released from their classes to receive religious instruction in churches or synagogue religious schools.

The vote was 5-2 with Aaron Cohen and Julius Alpert, the two Jewish members of the board, opposing the measure. The issue occasioned wide comment in the community. The local press carried letters, editorials and comments on the question. Early in the discussions the school committee conferred with members of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergy. The controversy was especially interesting from the Jewish viewpoint since Chelsea has a Jewish population of some 18,000 in a total of about 40,000.

PROVIDENCE, Rh. I.—Rabbi William G. Braude has filed papers as a candidate for school committee from District G.

SOUTH AFRICAN JEWS TO WORK WITH CONFERENCE

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa—The South African Board of Deputies voted this week to collaborate actively with the American Jewish Conference that recently concluded its first session in New York, and with other appropriate bodies overseas, in order to assist the Jews in Europe and Palestine now and after the war.

Canadian Labor Asks Entry For Refugees

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

Montreal — The Canadian Government was called upon "to offer the sanctuary of Canada to all refugees of religious or political persecution without regard to race, creed or financial condition," in a resolution adopted here at the closing session of the convention of the Canadian Congress of Labor, which was attended by 525 delegates.

The resolution urges the government "to take immediate steps to facilitate the entry into Canada of refugees, especially those who are stranded in Portugal whom it is still possible to rescue." The resolution was sponsored by the delegation of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union of America.

Another resolution adopted by the convention of the unions, most of which are affiliated with the C. I. O., condemns anti-Semitism as subversive and against the interests of national unity. Similar resolutions were adopted by the convention of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Warns Fascists Here Will Try Armed Revolt

Special

NEW YORK—In his weekly column for the Anglo-Jewish press, Benjamin H. Kaufman, retiring president of the Jewish War Veterans of the United States, declares openly that fascist supporters will "try armed revolt" if they are not able to prevent the President from carrying out his plans for "government aid and cooperation" for the demobilized soldiers.

Declaring that: "Right now and here and all over the country, the employees and stooges of the native American Fascists are working hard." Commander Kaufman points out that "wealthy malfactors . . . if they don't win by legal—or half-legal—means, by bribery and bought legislators and corrupt newspapers and all the machinery they knew so well how to use, they will try armed revolt."

"They wanted to try it in the past," he continued. "We know that they tried to hire General Smedley Butler to load a Fascist attack on Washington. He revealed their plot. They were more successful with General Moseley Van Horn, who was anxious to try it but didn't get the chance—as yet. Lindbergh was being built as the man on a white horse. Now they are training and preparing the future rank and file of their future Fascist troops."

Brickner on Mission

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—Rabbi Barnett R. Brickner will leave for overseas shortly on a religious mission to visit the Jewish chaplains and Jewish men in service in the various theatres of operation, it was announced this week by Frank L. Weil, president of the National Jewish Welfare Board.

NAZIS TAKE NOTE OF GERMAN FEELING ON JEWISH PERSECUTION MISTAKE

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON—With German armies retreating on the Russian front and with the Anglo-American armies smashing the German positions in Italy, anxiety is growing among the civilian population of Germany as to the consequences of the relentless Nazi extermination of Jews, reports reaching here through neutral countries indicate.

In an attempt to counter-act this anxiety which is especially noticeable in provincial towns, the German Ministry of Propaganda has distributed an article to the provincial press warning against the spread of "pro-Jewish defeatism," and emphasizing that the Nazi fight against the Jews must continue unabated.

"Some say," the article declares, "that if National-Socialist Germany would not have tried to solve the Jewish problem with such harsh measures, world Jewry would not have fought against the Reich. This is nothing but ignorant talk which must be combatted."

London newspapers this week report that Wilhelm Fritsch, Nazi Attorney General in Koenigsberg who was entrusted with the liquidation of the Jewish ghettos in occupied Poland, was killed by a Jew during the battle between Jews and Nazi troops in the Bialystock ghetto. Fritsch had ordered the confiscation of Jewish property and ordered Jews in Bialystock tried on charges of sabotage.

Plenty of people have a good aim in life, but they close their eyes before they pull the trigger.

Jewish Defense Workers Asked by Nelson To Stay on Jobs for High Holidays

(Special)

NEW YORK—Key Jewish workers in defense industries, particularly plane and ship building plants, were asked this week by Donald M. Nelson, head of the War Production Board, to be on the job during the coming holidays, and to arrange their schedules of observances so as not to interfere with production.

In a letter to Dr. Israel Goldstein, of the Synagogue Council of America, Mr. Nelson said, "... many Jewish war workers will wish to spend all or part of these days away from their jobs. The War Production Board is not asking them to forego their observance of these ceremonies. In many cases I believe that the individual workers can arrange their work schedules so that they can later make up for the production time lost.

In the cases of the plane and ship building plant workers, Mr. Nelson asked that they stay on the job through the holidays.

Orthodox Rabbis Confer With Hull On Plight of Jews

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

WASHINGTON — The situation of the Jews in Europe was discussed this week at a conference between Secretary of State Cordell Hull and a delegation from the Union of Orthodox Rabbis of the United States and Canada.

The delegation which was led by Rabbi Leo Jung of New York City, appealed to the Secretary to take measures to effect the rescue of a large number of rabbinical students who were stranded in Shanghai when the Japanese occupied that city.

At the same time, Rep. Emanuel Celler, Democrat of New York, issued an appeal addressed to Generals DeGaulle and Giraud, asking the restoration of the Cremieux Law. Representative Celler said that annulment of the law "does not serve the purpose of the removal of racial discrimination." Pointing to the fact that recent actions of the French Committee of National Liberation have indicated that it desired to purge North Africa of all Vichy influences, he asked why the order abrogating the Cremieux Decree still stands, although it is "quite inconsistent with the aims and aspirations of the French Committee of National Liberation."

TELLS COMMONS OF SLAUGHTER OF 7,000 RUSSIAN JEWS

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON—The execution of 7,000 Russian Jews whose bodies were used for a road-fill was described in the House of Commons this week by Commander R. M. Prior, a veteran of the Dieppe raid, who secured the information from a German soldier.

Commander Prior was captured during the Dieppe raid by the Germans and escaped only recently. During his imprisonment he met an Alsatian soldier who had been conscripted into the German Army and sent to Russia. The soldier told Commander Prior that he had witnessed the execution of the 7,000 Jews, who were lined up before ditches into which their bodies were subsequently thrown and covered with dirt. Later German engineers used the filled-in ditches as part of a road they were constructing.

BBC, Belgium, Warn Persecutors Of Punishment

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON—French police were warned this week not to participate in the persecution of the Jewish on pain of death after France is liberated.

In a French-language broadcast on the BBC, in which details of the deportation of French Jews to Poland from an internment camp in the Loiret Department, were given, the police were told that "great hatred is growing against you for your helping the Germans. It is for you to demonstrate your patriotism. Otherwise when 'the day'

To Name 23 Planes After the Temple

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

CLEVELAND — The congregation of The Temple here, which is headed by Dr. Abba Hillel Silver, has been notified by government authorities that a fleet of 23 hospital planes bearing the name of The Temple will be purchased with the $2,500,000 derived from the sale of war bonds by the congregation since the inception of the third war loan drive this month.

The Temple has announced that it expects to sell an additional $500,000 worth of bonds before the drive ends. Mrs. David Kyman, chairman of the synagogue's bond committee, broadcast this week over Station WHK as a reward for being named Cleveland's "Woman of the Week" in the war loan campaign.

women of Lawton to do the cooking and serving. The Jewish Welfare Board furnished the matzoth, haggadahs and necessary funds. In Pendleton, Oregon, the ladies auxiliary of the Methodist Church also catered a Seder for Jewish men at the Air Base there.

Churches Give Facilities

In scores of towns near Army and Navy installations where there are few or no Jewish families and hence no synagagues, churches of all denominations have made their facilities available to Jewish chaplains and JWB field workers for Jewish religious services and holiday programs. Church auditoriums, classrooms, vestry halls and similar places where Jews had never before been were thrown open by Christians to their Jewish fellow-Americans in the armed forces. At a Yom Kippur eve service held at a Christian chapel at Mineral Wells, Tex., members of the Christian choir joined with Jewish boys in uniform in chanting Kol Nidre.

Paralleling these incidents is the story of the young Jewish corporal who volunteered to sing at regular Sunday morning services held by the Protestant chaplain at Fort Adams, R. I. There is also the case of a young Protestant private at Camp Croft, S. C., who came to a JWB worker to ask permission to observe Yahrzeit for his closest friend, a Jewish lad. These are developments which chaplains have hailed as being "far better than all the books and lectures written on religious tolerance" in the results they obtain.

One of the most impressive manifestations of good will in action is the strong feeling of brotherhood exhibited by Christian chaplains in camps and posts without Jewish chaplains. With the aid of material furnished by the Jewish Welfare Board, these Christian chaplains have done an amazing job. At one post two Jewish soldiers read the Friday evening service, the Catholic chaplain plays the organ and the Protestant chaplain gives the sermon. On board an Army transport, a Christian

Solve Jewish Plight Or Peace Will Be Affected—Weizmann

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON—If the Jewish problem is not solved after the war, it will remain an "open sore" that will fundamentally affect the peace of the world, Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, declared this week, addressing a memorial meeting for the late Lord Wedgewood, pro-Zionist peer.

Dr. Weizmann said that the Zionist position was under attack at present from Jewish and non-Jewish quarters at a time when "grave issues hang in the balance." He paid tribute to Lord Wedgewood as one of the few persons who understood the problems of the Jewish people.

Evidences of Actual Good Will In Action Told by Writer

chaplain pinch hits as "rabbi" for the Jewish men, using Jewish prayer books. In many camps Jewish soldiers report that it is the Christian chaplain who reminds them of the Jewish holidays and helps arrange for services, in the absence of a Jewish chaplain.

Only recently, Corp. Norman Bergman, of Cleveland, stationed somewhere in the Southwest Pacific wrote home to tell how the men of his company, Catholic, Protesant and Jew alike venerate Father Hallinan, the Catholic chaplain. Men of all three faiths faiths built him a chapel and men of all faiths go to that chapel for prayer daily. It was Chaplain Hallinan who organized passover services for the Jewish boys in the Southwest Pacific post. In the same spirit, the Holy Name Society reported that in camps where no Catholic chaplain has been assigned, Protestant ministers and rabbis have helped organize Holy Name units among Catholic Servicemen.

This kind og good will in action is not confined to the men in uniform. It is being practiced by Americans on the home front, too. When civilian defense chiefs began worrying about manning air raid precaution centers Christmas eve and Christmas Day, B'nai B'rith lodges in dozens of communties solved the problem. Thanks to B'nai B'rith's good will in action, hundreds of Christian civilian defense workers spent Chrismas at home while B'nai B'rith members did double duty at air raid centers. Mrs. Yetta Klotz, of the Bronx, is one of the hundreds of Jews and Protestants who are grateful to the Catholic Church because the Apostolic Delegation to the Holy See in Washington has handled over 80,000 messages to and from all parts of the world between war prisoners and their families, from servicemen, and from war internees. Messages to and from Jews and Protestants exceed those to and from Catholics. In the case of Mrs. Klotz, it was this Catholic agency that advised her that her son was an Italian prisoner of war two months before the War Department informed her he was missing in action.

During a luncheon meeting of chaplain in New York, Lt. Comm. Robert Kelly, of "They Were Expendable" fame, inquired if the chaplains could provide 200 Christmas gifts in 24 hours. He wanted them to take to sea as a surprise for the men on his mosquito-boat squadron. When Kelly put to sea he had his gifts, provided by the Jewish Welfare Board. The B'nai B'rith women in New York came through in similar style when Father Hubbard, the glacier priest, wanted to fly Christmas gifts to men in Alaska. In Atlantic City, the Jewish community is now using the facilities of the Y.M.C.A., which made its building available to the Jewish Community Center when that agency turned its building over to the Coast Guard. WOG, which stands for Women of Good Will, is the name of an organization formed by the Chicago Round Table of the National Conference of Christians and Jews to mobilize for war work Catholic, Protestant and Jewish women who are unable to join other war groups for reasons of age, health or responsibility. A war salvage campaign in Harrisburg was jointly sponsored by the three major faiths.

Make Up $10,000 Purse

In Chicago, St. Patrick's Day was made the occasion for paying tribute to war heroes of all races and creeds, with Captain Colin Kelly and his bombardier Sergeant Meyer Levin, singled out for joint honors. A ten-year old Catholic youngster in Los Angeles, whose left leg has been in a brace since she was one, and her mother, an $18-a-week laundry worker, both bless B'nai B'rith for a dramatic good will gesture. It all began when a member of a B'nai B'rith lodge bought some war bonds which entitled him to free admission to the Hollywood premiere of "Yankee Doodle Dandy." A feature of the premiere was a drawing to select a woman to sponsor a Liberty ship. This Ben B'rith was sitting in the seat whose number was drawn. Passing up the privilege of having his wife or daughter christen the ship, he went to the Infantile paralysis Foundation and chose the Catholic youngster. The men in the shipyards liked the idea too and they raised a purse of $10,000 for her.

These striking examples of good will in action growing out of the war have their counterparts in the sphere of religious cooperation among the civilian population. The fourth of the "Faith and Freedom" series of readers for Catholic elementary schools, published by the Catholic Commission on American Citizenship, gives sympathetic mention to the cooperation and assistance given to Catholics in the pioneer days of America by Quakers, Mormons, Jew and Methodists. A new teachers manual for protestant schools contains a chapter on Sukkoth reprinted from "Hillel's Happy Holidays," published by the Commission on Jewish Education of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations. A series of articles on the important Jewish festivals was published by the education department of the American Baptist Publication Society for the use of Baptist teachers. In Milwaukee, Jewish and Christian youth of high school age have been cooperating in comparative studies of Jewish and Christian holidays. Meeting on alternate Sunday at Temple Emanu-el Jeshurun and at the Kenwood Methodist Church, 60 young people discuss the background and significance of the Jewish and Christian Sabbath, Hanukkah and Christmas, passover and Easter, Sukkoth and Thanksgiving Day.

In Champaign-Urbana, Ill., there was organized last year an adult school offering courses on church dogma, New Testament, Evangelism, church organization and the Old Testament. The instructors were church workers, clergy-men and faculty members students came from every stratum of the community and they attended two hour lectures for six consecutive weeks with a view to acquiring a more than fleeting understanding of religious problems and religious literature. Detroit's Westminister Presbyterian Church tried as an experiment in inter-religious fellowship the plan of announcing in its weekly bulletin the Old Testament selections for weekly readings recommended by Detroit synagogues. A worship service based entirely on selected readings from the Jewish Prayer Book was conducted by the church school of New York's Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church. Last year, too, there was held for the first time an inter-faith Religious Book week wkhen bookshops, libraries, churches and community centers featured religious books selected for the occasions by four committees of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen, educators and writers. Fifty each of the selections were protestant, Catholic, Jewish and inter-faith or good will volumes.

B'nai B'rith's Hillel Foundations continued to play an especially valuable role in strengthening good will in action. Theological students who will become the pastors in the liberal Christian pulpits of the Pacific and Rocky Mountain Regions took a course in Hebrew literature and Old Testament background that was given last year at the Starr King School for the Ministry in San Francisco by Rabbi Edward Klein, Hillel director at the University of California. Army trainees assigned to Ohio State University for military training are receiving Hebrew quizzes given by Rabbi Harry Kaplan, director of the Hillel Foundation there. A new chair in Jewish studies, designed to encoursage a better understanding of the rabbinic period, during which Christianity grew out of Judaism, has been established at the Divinity School of Duke University, with Rabbi Judah I Goldin, former Hillel director at the University of Illinois, as the first incumbent of the chair.

Rabbi Heads Chapel Board

That these are not exceptional incidents is evidenced by some even more significant in the field of human relations. In Youngstown, Ohio, there was opened last year the Little Chapel of Friendly Bells of the Trinity Methodist Church. The chapel belongs to the whole community for all to use according to their beliefs. Chairman of the board of control is Rabbi I. E. Philo. The stained glass windows in the chapel contain representations of Buddha, Confucius, Mohammed, St. Augusstine, John Calvin, John Wesley, Rabbi Hillel and St. Francis of Assisi. The Keys of the Kingdom, sybol of St. Peter, of special significance to Catholics; Solomon's Temple, symbol of Judaism; and the House Built upon the Rock, representing the Christian Church, bring to a crescendo the message of religious unity.

In Trinidad, Colo., a bequest of $250,000 left to the syngaguos there by Alfred Frauenthal, was utilized largely to further good will in action. From the bequest the synagogue repaired church roofs, instaled church organs, enlarged the playground of a Catholic church, paid off a mortgage on an Epispopal Church, provided a new floor for the Negro church and contributed to charities of all faiths. In Canonsburg, Pa., Harry Katz, son of Jewish immigrants, initiated and headed a community drive that preserved the famous Log College, birthplace of higher education west of the Alleghanies and a shrine of the presbyterian Church. In Detroit, the Round Table of Catholics, Jews and Protestants organized an inter-faith musical committee to stage a series of musical events featuring the works of composers of the three faiths. In Elmira, N. Y., the Elmira Ministerial Association elected a Negro clergyman president and a rabbi vice-president. Illinois Wesleyan University broke a 93-year tradition when it conferred its first honorary degree on a non-Methodist, giving the degree of Doctor of Humanities to Dr. A. L. Sachar, national director of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations, in recognition of the impact made by Hillel Foundation courses on Christian students who have taken Hillel credit courses in Jewish literature and history.

Inter-faith student fellowships at American universities were another impetus to good will in action. In New York City, the Metropolitan Hillel Council received a fund from the family of Morris Furman to establish inter-faith fellowships at the colleges in New York as a memorial to Burtan J. Furman, U.S.N., Jewish war hero. Similar fellowships were established this year at Ohio State University and the University of Michigan as the Arnold Schiff Memorial Fellowships, while at Wayne University, Detroit, the Jewish Community Council and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People created a number of intergroup relations fellowships.

These instances of good will in action for the year now ending are but samplings of many that have come to public notice and the thousands of others that made no headline but evidenced in a practical way that people of America believe in the things for which we are fighting and proved it by not only preaching brotherhood but practicing it. Through good will in action they are showing that they understand that it is as important to fight against religious hatred at home as it is to give battle to the enemy whose creed is the antithesis of good will in action.

STATE JEWISH LEADERS DIVIDED IN BIAS POLL

Leaders of the state's Jewish communities are divided on the question of anti-Semitism, a poll made by The Jewish Post revealed. Not only do some of these community heads disagree on the question of whether anti-Semitism is increasing in the United States, but they also differ on the question of whether sufficient steps are being taken by national Jewish organizations to fight the disease.

From Evansville to Gary and from Terre Haute to Fort Wayne, the Jewish Post correspondents throughout Indiana proposed the following three questions to their community and organization leaders:

(1) Do you think anti-Semitism is on the increase?

(2) Do you think anti-Semitism is becoming a public problem in the United States?

(3) Are you satisfied with present steps to counter-act anti-Semitism?

The three queries evoked almost as many different answers as there were people questioned. While Ben Blumberg, of Terre Haute, well-known throughout the state for his philanthropies and public works, declared that he felt a good job of counter-acting anti-Semitism was being done by the Anti-Defamation League and the American Jewish committee, Rabbi Garry J. August, of Temple Israel in Gary, declared that "no intelligent Jew can be satisfied 'with present steps to counteract' anti-Semitism.

The replies follow in full, in alphabetical arrangement:

Rabbi Garry J. August, Gary— Statements on findings made by the non-sectarian anti-Nazi League the Jewish Congress and the secret Gallup poll sponsored by national defense organizations, point very clearly to a pronounced increase in American anti-Semitism.

Anti-Semitic literature flooding the mails, leaflets distributed among workers in great defense plants, poison speeches by elected representatives of the people in our halls of Congress, and similar receent manifestations such as destruction of synagogues and cemeteries—how would you define them, save as "a public problem in the United States.?"

If the answer to question one is correct, then does it not follow that no intelligent Jew can be satisfied "with present steps to counteract" anti-Semitism? What steps to take in addition to present methods —well, that calls for a reply to question four, which, unfortunately, was not asked.

Sidney Bernstein, President of the Adath Israel Synagogue, Evansville—My opinion on anti-Semitism is that it is not on the increase this is, speaking of anti-Semitism within the United States. There was a time when it was a problem, but I seriously believe that anti-Semitism reached its high point prior to Pearl Harbor and that it has been forgotten in the shuffle of public events. I think that everything possible is being done to counteract it and that the anti-Defamation League or B'nai Brith is doing all in its power along these lines.

Benjamin Blumberg, Terre Haute—I have not noticed any signs of anti-Semitism being on th increase or becoming a public problem in Terre Haute in the last six months. Notice how many anti-Semities have been jailed. I believe a good job of counteracting it is being done by the B'nai Brith's anti-Defamation League and the American Jewish Committee.

Harry Dansker, President of Vincennes, B'nai B'rith—Answer to question 1—No; answer to question 2—yes; answer to question 3 —no. The average Gentile does not know what a Jew is. I have been asked questions that lead me to believe this. At times I have advocated getting together with Gentile groups instead of talking and writing for our own people, but I was told that it would serve no purpose. What is needed is education, and good fellowship, and living among our neighbors in such a manner that the rabble rouser will have no chance to pick the Jews as a scapegoat. We need not fear that by mixing with other religious, we will lose our own, but on the contrary, we will be the more respected.

Louis Dumes, Presideent of Hovis Hochim Congregation, Vinvennes—My answer to question one is: No, only that it has been brought more to the public eye by the war.

As regards to question two my answer is: No more so than usual.

On question three, my answer is also—no. I feel that instead of bringing to the public eye every incident, important or not, that pertains to the Jew as an individual or in a group, steps should be taken to investigate the cause of the incident, and upon clearing up the cause, the result will take care of itself, and by not making an issue of every "anti-Semitic" detail anti-Semitism will die a natural death. Of course, I do not mean this as an argument to work against the Nazi's attempt to eradicate the Jew from the face of the earth, but from the standpoint of "Jew baiting" in our own country.

William F. Freund, Muncie—Anti-Semitism has reached its peak crease or decrease. It all depends upon economic conditions, friendship and a better understanding by proving good fellowship to all mankind.

Anti-Semitism is no more of a public problem than any other religious group. It all depends upon the conduct of the individual. Ignorance plays a great part and can be corrected by enlightening the uninformed.

We should not be satisfied until the peoples of the world are enlightened. Those who are born in the Jewish faith are as good as any other people. No man had finer qualities than Jesus Christ, who was born a Jew.

Rabbi Aaron Gorbaty, Lafayette—There is definitely anti-Semitism in America, but I believe it is not increasing. It is because of the great seriousness of the world Jewish problem that leads many of us to believe it is, but as long as our democratic way of life will remain upheld, anti-Semitism will not increase. The democratic and religious gentile honors the Jew when he is a true one.

Anti-Semitism is the Christian and is now drifting. It can in-problem and the Jewish plague, and the only way to counteract it is through our loyalty and devotion to our faith and people. Giving up or compromising on Jewish problems will not decrease anti-Semitism in America.

Archie Lapin, Muncie — Anti-Semitism is probably not on the increase at the present time. It is true that in some sections of the country the forces of hate, frustrated by the high ideals of the war, have unleashed themselves with extra fury as disclosed by the recent incidents in Detroit, Chicago and New York, but the condition does not seem to be general.

Anti-Semitism has become a public problem in the sense that any display of hatred and oppression is of public concern in these striving times when blood is being shed for democracy and the four freedoms.

Much is still wanting in our measures to combat anti-Semitism. The B'nai B'rith through its anti-Defamation League and the American Jewish Committee are doing noble work and deserve our wholehearted support, but intelligent approach must bring about even better methods and results.

Louis Levi, President of Washington Avenue Temple, Evansville—I think that anti-Semitism in the United States is on the increase. Of course, there are more anti-Semitic groups now than there ever have been, but I don't think that it is becoming a public problem. I think that the general public is acquainted with the fine work that the Anti-Defamation League of the B'nai B'rith is doing to curb the evil of anti-Semitism and I am satisfied with the steps being taken.

A. N. Levin, Terre Taute—Anti-Semitism is becoming a public problem, but as to the steps to counteract it, I don't know.

Morris D. Lieberman, Gary—The first two questions can easily be answered in the affirmative. The answer to the third question, however, must be elaborated because it is based primarily on the first two. The reason for it is obvious.

Because of the present war, the so-called anti-Semitic organizations, the K. K. K., the Silver Shirters, Brown Shirters, America First and similar anti-American and isolationist groups who are dormant at present, will, soon after, the war is over, resume their vitriolic outbursts through their mediums of the Chicago Tribune, the Coughlinites, and their likes.

To combat it, we must rely upon the kind of a world peace we will attain universally. We must contact all American educational agencies to whom the youth of our country is entrusted and present them a program in the spirit of democracy and social justice. This information properly transmitted should act as an antidote against any vicious propaganda our enemies may spread.

We must hope that the millions of our fighting boys—the leaders of tomorrow—who will return to civilian life imbued with the spirit for the cause they were fighting, will be at the helm of labor organizations, American Legion, Veterans of World War, etc., transplanting that spirit of understanding and tolerance to the rank and file of their organizations.

Lastly, the Christian world must come to the realization that it failed bitterly by allowing anti-Semitism to exist in Christian dominating countries. They must justify their own existence only when they will begin to practice brotherly love regardless of creed, color, or nationality, and not only preach it.

Mrs. Louis Marks, President of the Washington Avenue Temple Sisterhood, Evansville — I think that anti-Semitism has most assuredly been on the increase since the rise of Hitlerism. In following the course of the recent race

Intermarriage, Children: Two Problems

By RABBI BERNARD HARRISON
(Director of L. A. Hillel Council)

Thursday was not an unusual day here in the Los Angeles Hillel Council office. In the morning a student in her second year of college came into the office obviously agitated. She was about twenty years old, and wanted to see me alone on a personal matter. She told me that she was in love with a Gentile boy whom she had met on campus. She herself didn't believe in religion. Though she had come from Europe a number of years ago, she spoke without trace of an accent. Her parents had never affiliated with any Jewish organization—religious, cultural, or social and she was brought up without any kind of spiritual training.

Moreover, she told me very frankly and simply that there was no sense remaining Jewish; and she certainly would not want any child of hers to be Jewish, all because of the danger of anti-Semitism.

Her forthcoming marriage presented this problem: Her fiance is Catholic. As we know, Catholicism insists on one of two alternatives before it will sanction any inter-marriage: Either the non-Catholic be converted or else promise that the children will be brought up in the church. She was quite ready to take instruction, conceding the possibility that she might find the faith and religion of her fiance acceptable.

The objections of both families complicated matters; and beyond that there was still left a glimmer of a sense of guilt in running away, in trying to escape her Jewish association.

CHILDREN SHUN JEWS

Let no one assume for a moment that this is characteristic only of those who have come to these shores in recent years, or who have personally experienced an anti-Semitic outrage. Later on during the day, a social worker came in to see me. She told me of the problems besetting a fairly well to do Jewish family in this city. The father is riots and the persecution of minority races, I think that more people are conscious of this disease and more effort will be made to strike it out at its very roots. Just as the scientists and medical men have striven to strike out physical diseases of humanity, so will the statesmen and diplomats of our democracy endeavor to wipe out this disease of humanity.

Byron Novitsky, Fort Wayne—In my opinion, anti-Semitism as such is not increasing. In our community we do not see as many external manifestations of anti-Semitism as we have seen at various times since the advent of Hitler. However, those who spread its doctrine are still with us, and can and will find as many willing followers as in the past, when the opportune time comes. The increasing support given to those who represent reactionary thought in this country is most alarming. It indicates an increase in the number of persons who will be receptive to anti-Semitic propaganda.

It is now a well-established historical doctrine, that anti-Semitism is the barometer of democracy. Those who would destroy democracy first attack the Jew. It follows, that anti-Semitism is a public problem. Unfortunately, anti-Semitism cannot be legislated out of existence. The public must be made to realize the use to which anti-Semitism is put by those who would destroy our democracy.

It is always a simple task to criticize. If the intent of this question is to evoke criticism of our national defense agencies, my answer will fall short of accomplishing this purpose. The Herculean task of counter-acting anti-Semitism is being handled much better now than in the past. The shift in emphasis of the major agencies toward a positive program is most encouraging. There is still need for a greater unity of effort on the part of all forces fighting anti-Semitism. If there is any criticism, it is to be laid at the door of the local Jewish communities for their failure to insist upon greater co-ordination of effort on the part of the national agencies. We Jews are also to blame for failing to realize that it is not alone the person who subscribes to anti-Semitic doctrines with whom we must contend, but that all who are reactionaries and all who strive to create racial or class hatreds of any kind are our enemies. If we wish to do away with anti-Semitism then we must be willing to recognize our enemies and treat them as such.

increase and is becoming a public problem here and I am not satisfied with the present steps to counteract it.

Benjamin Saks, Gary—It is my opinion that the germ of anti-Semitism is present in most non-Jews and that this germ lies dormant until conditions of stress arise. Thus, it is my belief that at present anti-Semitism is on the increase due to the stress of wartime conditions. My observations prove this to me. Moreover, unless some preventive measures are employed, I look forward to a greater display of anti-Semitism during the adjustment period following this war than we have ever experienced in the United States.

Anti-Semitism, just as any form of intolerance and bigotry, is a public problem and a public menace. The problem will increase proportionately to the growth of anti-Semitism. Democracy cannot maintain its strength and order if this disintegrating virus is permitted to fester and grow. The examples in Europe give illuminating proof of this.

The question of how to counteract the growth of anti-Semitism poses an almost unanswerable problem. I do not know the exact answer but I do believe that some steps can be taken which would tend to retard its growth. I am not satisfied with the present method employed by national and state authorities, which in most cases is mostly a matter of playing ostrich and refusing to see that a problem of anti-Semitism exists. Some legislation should be enacted preventing the dissemination of any speech or literature which tends to arouse public opinion against any race, color, creed or religion. I believe that if such preventive measures were taken the public would not become the tool of self seeking rabble rousers.

Mrs. Pearl Shonfield, Muncie—In our large cities there seems to have been an increase in anti-Semitism as synagogues have been attacked and Jews molested. I am satisfied, however, in the fact an extremely busy executive in the defense industry; the mother has until recently been active in club work, chiefly of a social nature. A daughter still attends a non-Jewish religious educational institution. A boy, two years younger, is soon to be graduated from high school. Neither parent had ever received any kind of religious education. They have friends who are non-Jewish as well as those who are Jewish.

PROBLEMS OF INTERMARRIAGE, CHILDREN DISCUSSED BY HILLEL DIRECTOR

But both children, son and daughter, will have nothing to do with fellow Jews. They shun them. They insist on going out with non-Jewish friends only.

Judaism is not only a meaningless and confused pattern of life to them; it is a disability.

Out of the experience of these two cases and countless others which have come to us at Hillel Council, several facts may be noted:

1. Large sections of our youth as well as our adults are growing up without the slightest understanding and meaning of their faith and their people. These spiritual illiterates are Jews by accident of birth only.

2. Too many of them, especially the youth, have become grievously maladjusted. At best they are a very unhappy and confused lot of people, wandering in labyrinths out of which no exits can be found. They are bitter, frustrated, and empty, squandering their talents and energies in a hundred futile directions. A full, integrated, purposeful life seems beyond their reach. And they hold themselves in contempt.

The work of such organizations as the Hillel Council has, in these last few years, become increasingly important, if only because it is in contact with so many of these spiritually lost souls. It would be impossible to enumerate, even in a general way, the steps that we take in our efforts to help these people. Some of the things we do may be indicated, however.

HOW WE COUNTERACT THIS

We meet with these young people individually, regularly, trying to answer their questions, studying with them matters they should have known in childhood. We try to interest them in some of our programs. Particularly in the field of religion we try to present to them a concept of Judaism that is dynamic, meaningful, inspirational and beautiful

At Friday services we offer them an opportunity to worship in a way that they can understand. For our sermons we select those topics they want to know about most. Such topics as "Why Pray?" "Should We Inter-Marry?" "Do We need Judaism?" "Do the Jews Cause Anti Semitism?" "Is Zionism American?" etc., are chosen by the students themselves and discussed by them.

They actively participate in the service, not only leading it, but oftimes creating new forms. Our choir is made up of students who are often music majors, and who have become interested, through the Council, in the liturgy and traditional music as well as the new Palestinian musical contributions.

Periodically, we observe the major festivals occurring during the year. On Succoth, the students build their own booth; on Passover, they read the Hagaddah, and participate in the creation of prayers and the program. Hanukah and Purim afford an opportunity of correlating basic American principles with their expression in Jewish religious tradition.

Though we do more in our efforts with such young people, it would be vitiated unless the cooperation of the elders is obtained. If parents reading this column see here any problem as their own, we urge them most seriously to start housecleaning immediately. Our concern over the education of our youth would not be one-half as grievous if we had an alert and educated adult community. Our suggestions to the adults would be in part:

1. Don't wait until your children are grown to choose a faith for themselves. They will be utterly lost. Give them a basis for choice at least.

2. Join a synagogue and attend as regularly as possible with your children.

3. Bring into the house as many of the customs as possible. Know clearly and fully their meaning so that you can explain them to your children and let them participate with you. They will be learning while doing.

4. Build a library of Jewish interest books, music and art, and learn yourself the history, the teachings, the meaning of Jewish life and thought.

5. Practice what you preach about being good and kind, for your children will discover the sham before you even become conscious of it yourself.—B'nai B'rith Messenger.

Leaders in Jewish Post Poll on Anti-Semitism

that steps are being taken to counteract anti-semitism. There is a textbook commission to eliminate anti-Semitic statements from textbooks used in schools. Also the American government has prosecuted numbers of individuals whose writings, speaking and other activities have stimulated anti-Semitism in America.

Rabbi Meyer H. Simon, Lafayette—The war has unified the American people to a degree unbelievable before Pearl Harbor. It is true, however, that the divine influences have been put in cold storage for the duration. However, the results of poisonous propaganda from isolationists, pro-Axis and hate mongering groups are still in evidence in the numerous "undercover," "pseudo legal" discriminations in industry and in violence, coupled with race riot venom.

Anti-Semitism is a public problem in the sense that it is a by-product of faults and maladjustments within the entire social structure and so must be faced by society as a whole, not merely by Jews who are its victims. Social discontents, repressed resentments against political and economic inequalities find in anti-Semitism a convenient escape valve. It is imperative to eradicate the underlying causes of these explosive forces before society will be rid of the menace of anti-Semitism.

Present steps to counteract anti-Semitism as exemplified by defense agencies of Jewish and non-Jewish organizations are only partially effective. We must prepare for a postwar program of public education and enlightenment on a great scale. Self-sacrifice and self-taxing to support such a program will be as patriotic a duty as war effort. Victory will be empty unless superhuman efforts to build a world of peace on foundations of justice, law and understanding will follow the termination of the war itself.

Lewis R. Sutin, Terre Haute—I feel anti-Semitism is on the increase and is becoming a problem, and as Jews we should be more aggressive and open in our fight. The reason I take this opinion is, it is not a Jewish problem but a Gentile disease, and as soon as Christians learn to practice true Christianity there will be no anti-Semitic problem. There is very little we can do as Jews.

Mrs. John Tatelman, Terre Haute—I do not feel anti-Semitism is on the increase or a public problem. Not nearly as bad as it was at the time of the K. K. K. and Silver Shirts.

Mrs. Bernard Trockman, President of the Ladies' Council of the Adath Israel, Evansville—I do not think that anti-Semistim is on the uprise. I can remember a time when anti-Semitism was quite prevalent in the United States, than it has been in recent years, but I think that the B'nai B"rith is doing a wonderful job of counteracting it.

Mrs. Carl Wolf—I feel that anti-Semitism is at a lower ebb now but we can look for a recurrence after the war because experience shows it always follows wars. I feel that the Jew can't do much about counteracting anti-Semitism. After all, it is a Gentile problem.

Editor's Note—The discussion on anti-Semitism will be concluded next week, with many other leaders yet to be heard from. Readers who want to join in are welcome to do so.

F.D.R. Praises Jewish War Effort

WASHINGTON, (J.T.A.) — President Roosevelt, in a Rosh Hashonah message issued through the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, expressed his admiration of the Jewish contribution to the American war effort and praised their loyalty as fellow citizens. The message reads:

"To those of the Jewish faith upon this anniversary of their New Year, I send greetings. At the same time I welcome the opportunity it affords me to express again my admiration of the contribution which this loyal group of our fellow citizens has made to the nation's achievements during the past year on the inexorable march toward victory."

CEREMONIAL FOR BURIAL OF SACRED OBJECTS SET FOR OCT. 3 IN EVANSVILLE

Special

EVANSVILLE — A service and ceremony for the burial of old sacred books will be held at the Mt. Carmel Cemetery at 2 p. m. Sunday, Oct. 3, the first of this kind held in Evansville. Anyone having old Bibles, prayer books, Taleisim and other sacred objects has been asked to bring them to the synagogue at Rosh Hashanah.

"Through the ages Jewish communities have always put away their sacred books, no more in use, in this dignified manner," said Rabbi Joseph Gorfinkel, who is conducting the service.

WHO, ME?

No, not now, son! But about 10 or 15 years from now after you've studied up on your "reading, writing, and 'rithmetic."

RIGHT NOW HE NEEDS YOU BACK IN SCHOOL

★ After the war's over and peace is won, it's you fellows that Uncle Sam will need to carry on the heritage of our great democracy. We'll have new and great airplanes to carry on our peacetime pursuits. He'll need you to build and fly them. You'll have to study hard to know how. Uncle Sam is going to need you to help with a lot of building . . . houses and the things that go into houses. Things like air-conditioning and better heating and lighting, and refrigerators. You're going to be busy . . . so you've got to prepare now, and study hard. And you'll have some wonderful things to play with! Radio, such as nobody knows today, and television, and electronics—things that aren't even imagined yet. You'll find it will be fun helping to build the world of the future. But you've got to study now so you'll be ready. So go back to school now, and remember that your studying now is a big part of today's fighting to make sure that this world of the future will be a better, more cheerful world.

The significance of the report meeting at which the Indianapolis delegate to the American Jewish Conference will tell the local community what transpired should not be lost. If the Conference is to be the successful apparatus for the translation of the will of American Jewry into action, then that American Jewry must be alert to what is going on.

Arranged under the auspices of the local lodge of B'nai B'rith, whose parent body was the original author of the Conference, the report meeting which is set for next Wednesday night, Oct. 6, at Kirshbaum Center, should attract as large an audience as any meeting ever held in the community.

The Indiana Jewish community has given its share of young men and women to the service of its country, along with religious grouping of all kinds. As a record of those who have been called to the service, The Post at considerable trouble has secured the almost complete list of every Indiana Jewish service man printed in this issue.

Naturally there will be omissions. So readers are asked to call to the attention of The Post the names of friends or relatives left out of the listing. From time to time every several months, the list will be brought up to date and reprinted, so that an accurate record of the participation of the Indiana Jewish community in the war may be secured.

I don't feel as others do, who have talked to me, that there need be any discouragement over the slow progress of the cigarette fund towards its $1,000 goal. This is the first drive of this sort ever attempted by The Post, and like anything else it requires orientation and education of our readers. The next time The Post finds a worthy cause which it feels it can help, and which does not seem to be taken care of through any of the established agencies, the task will be easier, and the money will be forthcoming more quickly and in larger amounts. As it is I feel quite confident that we will get that $1,000, although I couldn't make any promises as to getting it by the time limit. It would really be a shame if we couldn't get those cigarettes out in time so that the men would receive them whether in New Guinea, or in North Africa or the Middle East.

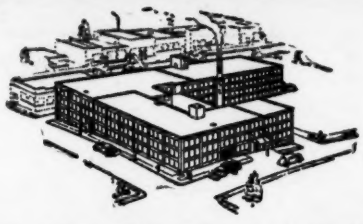
Special

NEW YORK—Judge Joseph Proskauer, president of the American Jewish Committee, will deliver an address in a Day of Atonement broadcast from 1 to 1:30 p. m. CST this Sunday, Oct. 3 over the nationwide hookup of the National Broadcasting System. Also on the program is a dramatization of the Battle of the Warsaw Ghetto..



THE NATION'S LARGEST

Right here in Indianapolis is America's largest manufacturer and distributor of Cleaning Tools and Chemicals serving the industrial and institutional field.
The J. I. Holcomb Mfg. Co. manufactures and distributes nearly 500 cleaning items to war plants, hospitals, schools, milk and ice cream plants, dairies; to Pan American Airways; to plane, tank, ordnance and munition plants; to institutions of every description the nation over. Many we are not permitted to name—the government says "Shhh!"—but cleanliness is vital in war production. We are proud to be doing our part.

By SARA MESSING STERN

AT THE SISTERHOOD'S opening "After Service Tea" at the Temple, Delaware and Tenth Sts., last Friday evening, our friendly, gracious Sisterhood president, Mrs. Sidney Mahalowitz, asked a mighty good-looking young soldier standing alone for the moment, "Wouldn't you like me to introduce you to some of our fine girls?" "If my wife won't mind." was the answer. The soldier happened to be T/Sgt. Henry Weil, home on leave, to be with his wife, Rachel Feibleman Weil and their infant daughter!!!

* * * *

HEARD A GOOD STORY from Norman Isaacs Friday night after services. It seems that the flue of the furnace at the Temple caught on fire last Sunday morning just as the religious school's opening session for the year was about to start. Smoke from the furnace was pouring into the Temple and the religious school rooms. The children were having a grand time outside looking on. Mr. Isaacs saw a young shaver come along, join the crowd and heard him ask, "What's the excitement?" "It's a fire" the children shouted. "Gee," he cried out. "I don't call that a fire! Why, the building is still standing." And the look on his face reflected his absolute disgust at their enthusiasm and their ignorance.

Lt. Jessie E. Levin, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Levin, 2822 Central avenue, who was in England for some time as a hospital dietician, is now somewhere in Africa. A letter to her family tells of Friday evening services Sept. 10, at a beautiful synagogue where the congregation fascinated her. The congregation was made up of Arabic, Moroccan, French and American Jews. "They told me," she wrote, "I was the only American Jewish girl there. The American Jewish boys seemed grateful for the sight of a Jewish girl from their own United States." After services she was among the guests at the Sabbath evening dinner in an elegant French home. The appointments, the service, the food was of an excellence to vie with anything in America. "We all live army life, lock, and barrel," she continued. "I share a tent with two other girls. We swim in the Mediterranean." The only thing strange to her, she tells the family, is that she has to explain where Indiana is and all about it.

MINNIE COHN with whom I have been friends since before our Temple confirmation days, had a birthday recently. She celebrated it with a family dinner at her brother Ernest Cohn's, and wife and, of course, as she should have been, was well remembered with messages and gifts. I know of no one who is more dependable, more thorough, more unselfish in all the many things she does for others. Her sewing, her knitting of innumerable sweaters, scarfs, helmets during this war and World War I for the Red Cross, her work for Hadassah, for Council, Sisterhood or for any other organization, she

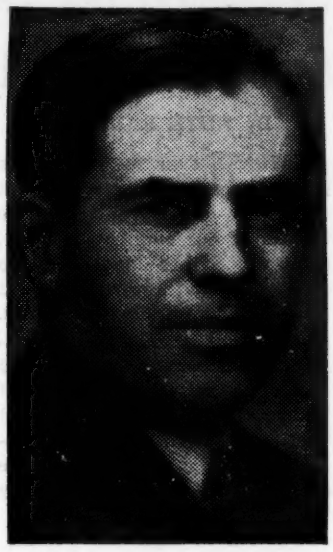
Says Fight for Freedom



WASHINGTON—The following is a Rosh Hashonah message issued by Vice President H. A. Wallace to the Jews of America through the Jewish Telegraphic Agency:

"I am sure that in spite of the terrible ordeals suffered by the Jews in Germany and in all of the occupied countries, they are more hopeful as this Rosh Hashonah approaches than they have been in many years. All of us must fight and pray until people everywhere can again live in a free world."

"The Story of The Americas" by Leland Dewitt Baldwin, published by Simon and Schuster, contains many incidents which throw light on the role played by Jews in the development of Brazil and other South American lands. It was the Jews of Pernambuco who in 1644 attempted to prevent a revolution against the Dutch which was financed by a wealthy planter, Joao Fernandes Vieira. The Jews having no reason to desire the restoration of Portuguese rule because of the Inquisition, warned the Dutch authorities of Vieira's activities. From "The Story of The Americas" we also can learn how Brazil, under the Portuguese, used to deliver Jewish refugees to the Inquisition in Lisbon. The author who begins his bock with the voyage of Columbus and concludes with the breaking off of relations between Latin-American countries and the Axis, believes that Columbus "may have been a Jew." He says that licenses to migrate were at that time strictly limited to orthodox Catholics and to those of "old" Christian origin, that is, without Jewish or Moorish blood. Neverthless, more than one voyager took along Jewish interpreters, he establishes. . . In the early days of Spanish-America, Portuguese Jews practically controlled the trade of Lima, Mr. Baldwin claims.

Pvt. Jeanette Krafsur, from Boston, Mass., who sang in the Roskin Art Choir in Boston is now stationed with the 85th W.A.C. Unit at Ft. Benjamin Harrison. She will sing in the Beth-El-Zedeck Choir for the High Holidays.

Fraternities, Sororities Going Ahead Despite War Impact, Writer Finds

By RUTH PALLER

The offices of all national Jewish fraternities and sororities were polled by Mrs. Paller for information on the effect of the war on fraternity and sorority welfare.

WITH MOST OF the young men and many young women of college age engaged in the active defense of our country, it might be expected that Jewish college fraternities and sororities would have become wartime casualties.

Instead of suspending operations, however, they have pulled in their belts, discarded some of the peace-time trimmings and turned all their energies to helping the United States make the enemy say "Uncle" or preferably "Uncle Sam."

Few Jewish fraternity and sorority houses have been closed because of depleted membership. On the contrary, the Indiana University chapter of Sigma Delta Tau Sorority reports the largest pledge class in its history. Nationally, Tau Epsilon Phi Fraternity has just completed the most successful year of inductions in the life of the organization.

Represenatives of the Greek letter organizations have various explanations for the continued interest of undergraduates in fraternities and sororities in the face of their imminent induction into the service of their country. The reason may be that most of the young men now entering universities are from 16 to 18 years of age, younger than freshmen of previous years, and many of them expect two or more years of college life before they are inducted. Then too, soldiers and sailors who are assigned to colleges for further training may join established fraternities if such activity does not interfere with their work. The students feel that fraternty affiliation is a link that will bring them back to college after the war.

Some Houses Given to Soldiers

While not many chapters were given up because of insufficient membership, a number of houses have been turned over to the universities to be used for soldiers returned to the campus for the Army Specialized Training Program or to house students for whom the dormitories are no longer available.

Phi Sigma Sorority gave up its chapter house at George Washington University in Washton, D. C., to relieve the housing shortage there and is investing the rent money in war bonds.

The fraternities expect to give the governmnt the use of most of their chapter houses by this fall. Several of the chapters are renting smaller houses for the duration, and others are meeting in club rooms.

2200 Out of 7000 in Army

War activities are engaging all the energies of the Greek-letter organizations today.

Most fraternity members are, of course, eligible for draft and are doing their part on the fighting front. Sigma Alpha Mu Fraternity has 2200 of its 700 members in uniform. The situation is comparable in the other societies.

The welfare of their brothers and sisters in the service is a major concern of all the fraternities and sororities. Zeta Beta Tau and Tau Epsilon Phi as well as many of the other groups maintains lists of names and addresses of members in the armed forces which are circulated among the members to acquaint them with their fraternity brothers who may be located at camps in their proximity. The boys write to the national offices again and again to tell how much it means to them to meet buddies with whom they have fraternity membership in common.

Sigma Alpha Mu's Alumni in Chicago have established a loan fund. Its principal purpose is to aid brothers returning to civilian life to hurdle the difficult period of readjustment. Another national accomplishment reported by the National Office is the organization of a Hospitality Committee composed of civilian alumni located near camps and naval stations to entertain all SAM soldiers and sailors.

To Open Center in New York

In New York City, Tau Epsilon Phi is planning to open a war service center for its members and their buddies who may come to New York on leave. Sleeping accomodations will be provided and plans are being considered to provide a modified form of canteen.

On April 12, Alpha Epsilon Phi Sorority presented a fully equipped ambulance to the United States Army. The sorority is now raising funds for a second ambulance and is preparing to give ambulances as long as the need for them exists.

Phi Sigma Sigma Sorority's national project is the purchase of a Red Cross Clubmobile to be used on a fighting front overseas. In addition each undergraduate and alumni chapter of Phi Sigma Sigma has an individual project. Gamma Chapter at New York University have just become "foster parents" of a war orphan now living in England.

Aid in Wartime Project

The Undergraduate chapters of all Jewish fraternities and sororities have performed outstanding work in the wartime campus projects, such as War Bond campaigns, blood donations, salvage drives, contributions of books and hospitality to service men in nearby camps.

The organizations are investing large portions of their endowment funds in war bonds. Individual chapters are making additional investments ranging from small purchases to as much as $8,500, each.

Most fraternities and sororities offer their members life membership. One sorority has made life memberships possible only by the purchase of a war bond bought in the name of the sorority instead of the usual contribution.

The undergraduate chapters of all Jewish fraternities and sororities have made outstanding records in their respective universities in the wartime campus projects, such as war bond campaigns, blood donations, salvage drives, contribution of books and hospitality to service men and women in nearby camps.

It is a challenge to the rest of the Jewish community to know that our boys and girls who may soon be called upon to give armed service for their country still feel it their responsibility to give all the aid asked of those who will remain at home.

AL SEGAL Speaks On WE LOOK AGAIN

YOUR MR. SEGAL TAKES UP his crystal ball, as he does every year at this season, and his tired old eyes delight to see how clear is the shape of things to come this time.

In the evil years of the recent past he has had to comfort his troubled heart by looking into the very remote future, since the years close at hand gave no light at all. Yes, he said, in a thousand years it will be right again. Certainly in a thousand years the dawn will come.

When his vision looked into the immediate years it was obstructed by an immense darkness which he called Hitler. Hitler's darkness seemed to cover the earth, the sun, the stars and the smiles of children. It reached even into heaven and people like Mr. Segal searched for God there. Aye, the immensity of Hitler seemed to have blotted God out and people asked, "Where is God?".

O, good Lord, forgive Thou the weakness of Thy children whose poor, frightened eyes magnify a momentary shadow and permit it to blot out even Thee from their sight.

This puny Mr. Segal has re-discovered God in human affairs and by His light everything is made clear as Mr. Segal fixes his gaze upon his crystal ball to search the future at this New Year season.

It is the great fault of Mr. Segal that in his fright he forgot the teachings he knew about the way of God with transgressors. The way the moral law turns with retribution against him who breaks it. The way treachery falls into its own snares. The way red seas overwhelm men who filled them with the blood of their victims. Their blood rise in a flood and in it the evil-doers themselves drown.

It's all right in the world, for the evidence of God again is patent to the eyes of all who for the moment lost their faith. Your Mr. Segal with a bright heart will recite the hallelujahs in the synagogue this New Year.

It is just off the press of the Bob Miller Publishing Co., Broadway, N. Y. It is gratifying to me, personally, that both Dorothy Dolen, and husband, and her daughter, Gloria are artistic and musical for I vividly recall when Dr. Benno Gundlefinger brought home his bride, Ottilie Bak, 45 years ago. She had been born and reared in Atlanta, Ga. She was pretty as a picture and a marvelous musician! She played the flute and Benno, the violin. Members of our community had delightful musical evenings at their home. AL SEGAL LOOKS INTO FUTURE IN ANNUAL NEW YEAR MESSAGE

Not Hitler's death is the great victory. It is that men, having seen the sorry end of hate and greedy ambition, of lustful selfishness and evil power, turn their eyes toward the ways of justice and compassion. They have seen the evidence of God and by His light they go to find their own way to brotherhood. That is the victory.

Mr. Segal's rapt eyes can see them marching up the mountainside. The sunlight is on their faces. There is a little man who says to his children, we're almost there, a few steps more and we'll be there, all right. Yes, we're marching toward a world without want and without fear. All together we're marching. In a little while we'll be there.

Mr. Segal makes ready to praise the Lord in the synagogue with a full heart. He has given justice to the transgressor and light to the people.

But Mr. Segal's crystal is reversible and when he turns it around he sees Hitler's grave 20 years later. Out of it another monster is growing. Hitler's bones have been the seeds of another Hitler. Mr. Segal understands this to be an admonition: Unless the earth is made good to grow the fruits of justice another Hitler will grow from it.

What was written in our Book about the evil-doers is true: "Why boastest thyself of evil, O mighty man? . . . Thy tongue deviseth destruction; like a sharp razor working deceitfully. Thou lovest evil more than good; falsehood rather than speaking righteousness. Thou lovest all devouring words, O thou deceitful tongue.

"God will likewise break thee forever. He will take thee up, and pluck thee out of thy tent, and root thee out of the land of the living.

"The righteous also shall see and fear, and shall laugh at him. Lo, this is the man that made not God his stronghold, but trusted in the abundance of his riches and strengthened himself in his wickedness."

Thus it is written in our Book (Psalms 52), and it is as true as the twilight gathering about Hitler's head, as the darkness that already encompasses Mussolini with encircling doom.

Yes, it is true: The righteous laugh at him. Only yesterday they trembled to look at Hitler, and where was he going next and what would he do tomorrow? What new conquests under his feet? What new agonies in his hands to inflict?

But today they laugh at him: To where will he run away and where will there be a spot for him to lay his head, though only yesterday he wanted the earth? This little man who looked so big.

Your Mr. Segal searches for the answers in his glass but, strangely, he sees no Hitler there. Only empty space where last year he stood in the foreboding immensity of a black cloud that covered the face of the earth and reached even unto heaven and seemed to blot out the face of God. He is not there. Only sunlight where the cloud stood and mankind looking up and laughing.

There is no fear, for the people have seen the proof of God in their affairs and they feel strong. They are not alone. They know He is with them, since in the darkest hour He took up the transgressor and plucked him out of his tent and rooted him out of the land of the living, in accordance with the writing in the Book.

But Mr. Segal can well see that retribution is not the end. Hitler, hanged or shot—Mr. Segal can not at the moment discern which it will be—will not settle everything. Hitler's hanging or shooting will be retributive justice. Men, turning away from the execution, will not feel entirely fulfilled. There will be something more they want. They will ask, what of justice for us—the justice of a just world; it gives every man what is coming to him of work and a living and a place of his own to lay his head; it provides for every nation its just portion of the rich earth. Hitler is dead by justice and for us there must be the justice by which we and our children may make good lives. That's what we want.

Sara's Column

here knows him by that nickname.) Belle Nathan, who is Mrs. Davis now, gave an evening party for the bunch in honor of Berth Crow, a young, naive girl, visiting from the West. The late Harry Kahn liked her and was assigned to bring her to the party. They drove up in a cab, a luxury in those days, and Bertha's armful of a dozen at least of American Beauty roses created great excitement! Fiddie went on to tell that Bertha Crow's answer to compliments on the roses was, "Do you know, Mr. Kahn must be in the habit of doing this for he'd hardly accept thanks and kept saying, 'Oh, it is nothing at all'."

"You see," said Fiddie to me, "I sent that cab to Bertha Crow's and the roses. And I put Harry's card in the box and charged the flowers and the cab both to Harry." "And Harry had to pay!" I commented. "He did not pay! I had to foot those bills. Harry Kahn told the florist and the cab company that since Mr. Solomon ordered he'd have ot pay!" And Fiddie laughed remembering those happy days of his late teens.

the enemy's just over the hill!

MAYBE I'm your boy—or the boy next door. You know, Mary's sweetheart, Joan's husband, Timmy's daddy. Your son, Father! Your boy, Mother!

Anyway, I've got something to say to you. I've got to make you understand.

This is it. This is zero. This is INVASION!

I'm here, with a million other boys just like me. We're your INVASION forces. And we're going to stay. It wasn't easy getting here, and it is going to be a lot harder before we're through.

WE'RE GIVING ALL WE'VE GOT

I said we were going to stay. I promise that, even if it means the thing—well, the thing we don't like to talk about. Because we're giving all we've got: Our minds, our strength, our blood.

But you see, this isn't going to be enough. Not unless those planes we need snarl down out of the sky on the enemy just over there. Unless those tanks get here. Unless the supply ships get through. Unless there are enough bullets for this rifle.

YOU'RE ON THE INVASION FRONT NOW!

It's that extra $100 War Bond, all of them together, making up the $15 billion worth they're asking you to buy in September, that will prove that you are on the INVASION front with him.

Your part is at least one extra $100 Bond during the Drive—at least $100. Of course, that's in addition to your regular bond buying. A $100 Bond is the rock bottom figure. Some of you will have to invest thousands to put this Drive across. Take it out of your pay check—or out of that nest egg you were saving for a rainy day.

All you can spare is too little, all you've got is just going to be enough.

Look at it this way: You won't be giving anything. You will be investing in VICTORY—and your future.

Things like safety for your family and money after the war to buy a new home, or to educate your children.

You're buying a stake in VICTORY—and that means America, yours and mine!

I guess that's all I've got time to tell you now. The enemy is waiting, just over the hill. Don't keep us waiting for you!

B'nai B'rith Marks 100th Birthday; Founders Shown

As B'nai B'rith prepared to celebrate its 100th anniversary which falls on Wednesday, Oct. 13, the national offices released these pictures of the twelve founding fathers. These photos have never before been published. (1) William Renau, died in 1891; (2) Henry Anspacher; (3) Reuben Rodacher, died in 1886; (4) Valentine Koon, died in 1889; (5) Samuel Schafer; (6) Michael Schwab, died in 1899; (7) Henry Jones, principal founder and first secretary, died in 1866; (8) Isaac Dittenhoefer, first president, died in 1860; (9) Isaac Rosenbourgh, in whose store first plans were laid for B'nai B'rith, died in 1894; (10) Jonas Hecht, last survivor of the founders and great-grandfather of Lester Sherrick, president of Norfolk Lodge in 1942, died in 1909; (11) Henry Kling, died in 1885; (12) Hirsch Heinman.

B'nai B'rith Here Host To 16 Lodges for State Association Meet, Oct. 17

The Indianapolis lodge of B'nai B'rith will be host to members and delegates of sixteen lodges in Indiana and Kentucky as the State Association meets here Sunday, Oct. 17 for its 23rd annual conference. The conference has been called a war assembly and problems in connection with civilian war effort will be discussed at the sessions.

Festivities will open at 10 a. m. at the Claypool hotel with a business session. A noon luncheon, which is replacing the customary night banquet, will follow, and will be addressed by Lewis Sutin, of Terre Haute, president of District No. 2 who has just returned from his Western tour.

In the afternoon, the delegates will hear a panel discussion between Norman Belth, of the Joint Defense Appeal (drive for funds of the Anti-Defamation League and the American Jewish Committee) and Richard Bluestein and Abel Berland of the Anti-Defamation League. Although the subject has not been announced, it will undoubtedly be in connection with civic defense work. Election of officers for the coming year, with Leon Levin of Indianapolis slated for elevation from first vice president to the presidency, will complete the program.

Local committees for the convention were announced this week. They are: General Chairman, Mr. Levin; Registration and Badges, David M. Cook, Mrs. Leon Levin, Mrs. Max Farb; Finance, Saul C. Koby, Wm. M. Meyers, Samuel Ziffrin.

Transportation, Harry N. Levin, Sidney Mahalowitz, Jacob Lutz, Samuel Kroot; Budget, Saul Munter; Program, Charles Bassler; Press, Gabe Cohen and Morris Strauss.

Entertainment, Eph Levin, Mack E. Laner; Reception, Allan Bloom and Mrs. Mildred Levey.

Ladies Reception, Mesdames, Harold I. Platt, Jack Kammins, Joseph A. Klein, Louis J. Borinstein, L. L. Goodman, Maurice Goldblatt, Robert Kugelman, Max Gellman.

A meeting of all the committees has been set for 3 p. m. this Sunday at the home of Mr. Levin, 647 East 44th St.

Visiting delegates who arrive Saturday night have been invited to a reception at 7:30 p. m. at Kirshbaum Center, where the lodge is sponsoring a "stage door" canteen similar to the one held at the Claypool Hotel several months ago.

Goldblatt Reviews To Begin

The sixth annual series of book reviews by Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt, sponsored by the Temple Sisterhood, will be held each Tuesday in November, at the Temple at 10th and Delaware Sts. The first four reviews will begin at 10:30 a. m. and the last will be an evening meeting. These book reviews are open to the public without charge.

Yom Kippur Plans Set by City's Shuls

Observation of Yom Kippur, beginning with Kol Nidre services this evening, have been scheduled by all city synagogues.

Services will begin in the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation at 7:00 p. m., with the sermon by Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt, who will conduct children's services at 12:30 p. m. Saturday. Memorial services will be at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow and Rabbi Feuerlicht will speak at Saturday night services at 9:30.

Yom Kippur services will commence at the United Hebrew Congregation at 5:30 p. m., when Rabbi Samuel Fox will deliver a sermon entitled, "The Floods of Civilization." Saturday morning services will begin at 7 a. m. Yizkor services will be held at 10:30 a. m. with a special memorial offered for men who have died on the battlefronts as well as the millions who have perished under the totalitarian persecutions. Rabbi Fox will deliver a sermon entitled, "Memory vs. Reverie."

The newly formed Beth Israel Congregation has announced Kol Nidre services beginning tonight at 5:30, with Cantor H. Sender, of New York, assisted by Mr. A. Lazar and William Siegel ,in charge. Rabbi Meyer Greenberg will speak Friday evening on "Vows We Cannot Break," and on Saturday morning on "Memories."

Kol Nidre services at Beth El-Zedek will begin at 5:30 p. m. Friday with Rabbi Israel Chodos

Blood Bank Drive Dates Oct. 20-Nov. 7

With the dates for the participation by the local Jewish community set from Oct. 20 to Nov. 7, plans were going ahead for the B'nai B'rith blood bank drive. Presidents of all local Jewish organizations have been enlisted in the drive, Sid Mahalowitz, chairman announced.

Meanwhile the lodge blood bank officials were given a letter by Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Jacobs, 4955 Washington Blvd., from their son, Sgt. Arthur Jacobs, who wrote that giving blood is "more concrete than flag waving."

"There's one thing you can broadcast to people who would sincerely like to contribute to the war effort. Tell them to donate blood—plasma is a wonderful thing—it has saved many a boy over here."

Donors have been asked to contact the Red Cross Blood Bank at LI 1441 and make their appointment now.

Appreciate Hospitality; But Soldiers Go Home

The USO-JWB Club this week announced that it wshed to explain to the many persons in Indianapolis who extended invitations to members of the Armed Forces for the holidays why they were not assigned guests. This situation resulted from the fact that at the last moment some servicemen were granted furloughs and many were granted a waiver of the usual 100-mile travel limit on their 3-day passes. This meant that many boys could and did take advantage of being able to spend at least part of the Holiday with their families, even though in some cases it entailed a trip of 40 hours for the privilege of spending only 32 hours at home.

LARGE RECEPTION COMMITTEE NAMED FOR RUTH BRYAN OWEN TALK HERE

With the press this week describing the frantic efforts of thousands of Danish Jews to escape the horrors of Nazi terrorism, death by the Gestapo or internment in slave camps, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen's visit to Indianapolis to speak under the the sponsorship of National Refugee Service is expected to attract a capacity audience. She will speak at 8 p. m., Tuesday, Oct. 12, at Kirshbaum Center.

RUTH BRYAN OWEN

Mrs. Owen, who is worthy inheritor of the title, "Silver-Tongued Orator" held by her father, William Jennings Bryan, served the United States government brilliantly as Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary to Denmark from 1933 to 1936. This was the period when the brutalities of the newly installed Nazi regime in Germany were beginning to make themselves felt abroad in the form of streams of refugees pouring into neighboring countries. Mrs. Owen was thus in a key position to know the refugee problem in intimate detail. Her acquaintance with it, however, had dated back to the first World War. Aside from her service as officiating, to be followed Satur-

Denmark in Furore as Nazis Seek Jews; Sweden Thanked

BULLETIN

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON — The Board of Deputies of British Jews this week addressed a letter of thanks to the Swedish Minister in London expressing the appreciation of the Jews in England for the friendly attitude taken by the Swedish government towards the Jews of Denmark and for the generous offer made by the Swedish authorities to give every assistance possible to the Nazi-persecuted Danish Jews.

By KARL FRAHM

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

STOCKHOLM — A number of non-Jewish professors of the Copenhagen University have been arrested by the Gestapo this week following the decision of the rector and the governing board to close the university for one week as an expression of protest against the German mass-arrests of Danish Jews, it was learned here this week.

Jews continue to escape from Denmark to Sweden by swimming during the night across the narrow waters separating these two countries. Many of them arrive naked, while others were drowned when caught in German fire after being spotted by German patrol boats. The bodies of a number of Jews were washed ashore and picked up by Swedish police officials.

The various reports from Denmark reaching here confirm that two of the three German ships which were being prepared in Copenhagen harbor to carry the deported Danish Jews to Germany have been sunk by Danish saboteurs. The third ship is said to have left for a Baltic port carrying 1,800 Jews, including Denmark's oldest woman, Madame T. Exiere, the mother of a professor of the University of Copenhagen.

A pastoral letter issued by Danish bishops condemning the anti-Jewish brutalities of the Nazis was read in all churches throughout Denmark, while in Sweden clergymen held prayers for the persecuted Danish Jews.

Ignoring the Swedish offer to the German government to permit all Jews in Denmark to proceed to Sweden to save them from deportation, the official German news agency, Deutsche Nachrichten Bureau, disseminated a report attacking the attitude of the Swedish authorities as "impudent" and "provocative."

Jewish Agencies Asked To Refrain From Saud Attack

By BORIS SMOLAR

Editor, Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

NEW YORK—There was quite a scene between Congressman Sol Bloom and Cong. Emanuel Celler over the question of whether Jewish members of Congress should keep quiet during the present visit to Washington of the two sons of King Ibn Saud. The dispute took place when Cong. Bloom, as chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, called in all the Jewish members of Congress and indicated to them that the State Department would be very much embarrassed if Jews in the United States issued insulting attacks against King Ibn Saud or his two sons during the latter's stay in this country.

Cong. Celler lost his temper and announced bluntly that in a radio address which he was to broadcast from New York, he would mince no words in denouncing Ibn Saud as an enemy of the Jews in Palestine. When it came to the actual broadcast, Celler changed his mind, however, and limited himself to the mild hope that the two Arab guests of the U. S. Government return to hteir country with the feeling that the public opinion in the United States wishes to see Jewish development in Palestine expanded. Congressman Bloom also addressed a select group of Jewish writers in New York, appealing to them to abstain from attacking the two Arab princes in the Jewish press. High government officials indicated to Zionist leaders that they hoped the Zionists would refrain from any possible act which the Arab notables might consider an insult. Even the always-aggressive Committee for a Jewish Army was told by its president, Senator Johnson, to behave. The Zionist attitude is that nothing will be done that can embarass the Arab visitors, unless the visitors themselves make public statements which are anti-Zionist. No Zionist leader here, I learn, will make any attempt to meet the Arab princes, unless the State Department itself arranges such a meeting on its own initiative. By the time this is published, President Roosevelt will already have conferred with the two Arab dignitaries on Arab-Jewish relations in an effort to induce their father to change his anti-Zionist stand and act as mediator between Jews and Arabs on the Palestine question. This is only one of the reasons why the sons of Ibn Saud were invited by the President to visit the United States. The other reason is American oil interests in Saudi Arabia.

Washington March By 200 Rabbis Expected this Week

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—Several hundred orthodox rabbis will march on Washington this week to urge immediate action by the President and Congress to save the millions of Jewish people trapped in Europe, it was announced at an extraordinary session of the Emergency Committee to Save the Jewish People of Europe, held at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

The march is a part of a mass petition campaign initiated by the Emergency Committee to Save the Jewish People of Europe through which Americans will ask the President and the Congress of the United States to create a special inter-governmental agency to handle refugee problems with powers to act without delay and on a large scale and also to request the British government to open the doors of Palestine to all the Jews escaping from the death trap of Europe.

B. W. Kirshbaum, Center Donor, Dead

Bernard W. Kirshbaum died Tuesday, Sept. 28, in his home, 3541 N. Meridian. Funeral services, conducted by Rabbi Morris Feuerlicht, were held Friday, Oct. 1, in the Flanner and Buchanan mortuary. Interment was in the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation cemetery beside his wife who passed away in January. Mr. Kirshbaum's death came after a brief illness.

He was the son of the late Raphael and Flora Kirshbaum, active in the early Jewish community life of Indianapolis. In Raphael Kirshbaum's will was a behest for philanthropic work. His children, with this fund, established the Kirshbaum Community Center as a memorial to their parents.

Bernard Kirshbaum, though born in Union City, Ind., had lived in Indianapolis since boyhood. He was a member of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation, the Masonic order, the Columbia Club and the Broadmoor Country Club. Survivors are his three sisters, Mrs. Simon Lyon, Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Albert M. Rosentahal and Mrs. A. B. Carlin, Indianapolis.

South Bend Responds; First Cartons Ready

With the first cartons of cigarettes ready to be shipped, The Jewish Post Cigarette Fund to provide a carton of cigarettes as a Chanukah present from the Indiana Jewish Community for every Indiana Jewish servicemen, netted another $57.50 this week to bring the total to $193.20.

Heading the contributions was the total of $44.50 from South Bend, all turned in as a result of the work of one woman, who would not allow her name to be published. Her success indicates what can be done in every community in the state if any one person there will undertake to see that the community does its share in making possible this Chanukah remembrance to the men and women in the army.

The cigarettes will be addressed individually and the carton will bear the legend, "Gift of the Indiana Jewish Community-Jewish Post Cigarette Fund".

REFUGEE SENDS $1.00

Of special interest was the $1.00 contribution from David Stern of Brooklyn, a refugee who lived here for several years and whose picture was in the local daily papers for his many visits to the blood bank. "My heart feels for all soldiers from Indiana State," Mr. Stern wrote. "Will you take my small donation and god bless you for your nice drive to send them Chanukah presents. And I hope in the meantime that they all come home pretty soon. I was in the last world war three and a half years, and I remember some of us changing bread for cigarettes, and I have never forgotten it."

EVANSVILLE LAGGING

Although soldiers from every community in the state will receive a carton of cigarettes, some communities have been slow in responding. South Bend and Marion have taken the lead thus far, with Evansville not having sent in the first contribution.

The first cartons are going out to soldiers overseas. These must be mailed by Oct. 15 in order to guarantee delivery by Chanukah, Dec. 22. The deadline for navy men overseas is Nov. 1, while the gifts to the men stationed in the United States will go out later.

Temple Women Open Season

The opening meeting of the Sisterhood of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation will take place at 2 p. m. Oct. 11, at the Temple, 10th and Delaware Sts.

Mrs. Ben Paller will dramatize a popular current Broadway play. Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt will give a short resume of Jewish current events. The program is in charge of the chairman, Mrs. M. T. Abrahamson.

Due to the absence from the city of Mrs. S. Carroll Kahn, chairman of hospitality, the social hour following the program will be in charge of Mrs. R. W. Greenberg, vice-chairman, assisted by Mrs. Sidney James, Mrs. William Rosenthal and Mrs. A. H. Freedman. Mrs. Sidney Mahalowitz will preside.

Kirshbaum Plans Junior Play

A party for children of junior age, 7 to 13 years, will be held at Kirshbaum Center at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 19 A variety of games, stunts and prize events will be arranged for the entertainment of the youngsters and club leaders and instructors will be present to become acquainted with the children. Refreshments will be served.

Serving on the Center committee for children's parties are the Mesdames Roy Aberson, Max M. Farb, Anna H. Rubio, Morris Olshan, Robert Netzorg, Archibald C. Cohen and the Misses Toba Epstein and Mildred D. Hoyt.

Delegates Named To Triennial Meet Of Council Women

Mrs. Monroe Leiser, president, Mrs. Paul Mode, first vice-president and Mrs. Charles Efroymson, second vice president, have been elected delegates from the Indianapolis Section to attend the 17th triennial convention of the National Council of Jewish Women, to be held at the Drake Hotel in Chicago Nov. 7 to 12.

The convention, marking the fiftieth anniversary of the Council, will be primarily a business meeting to formulate the national program of the organization for the next three years. Special emphasis will be placed on war activities and post-war planning.

A unique feature of the four-day session will be a joint meeting with the National Council of Jewish Juniors who, for the first time in their history, are holding a convention, their 13th biennial, in the same city and at the same time as the senior organization.

Music Hour Time Changed

The time of the Sunday evening Music Hour has been changed to 6:45 p. m. it has been announced. Beginning this Sunday, the committee will prepare mimeographed program notes for each concert. Persons having record albums that they are willing to loan for an evening are asked to leave word at the Center to that effect. The committee in charge includes Miss Marjorie Rab, Miss Norma Miller and Larry Frommer.

STATE SOCIETY

Ruth Epstein, Bernard Seigle Wed at Hammond

Special

HAMMOND—Mr. and Mrs. Isidore Epstein announce the marriage of their daughter, Ruth to Bernard Seigle, son of Mrs. Sue Seigle of Gary. The wedding was solemnized at Knesseth Israel Synagogue with Rev. Jacob Bergman officiating. A reception in the new social center followed.

State Births

HAMMOND — Mr. and Mrs. Rueben Schlensky, now of Chicago Heights, are the parents of a son born at St. James Hospital. The baby has been named Michael Alan and has an older sister, Marilyn. Mrs. Schlensky is the former Helen Kaplan of this city.

GARY — Dr. and Mrs. Saul Levy of the Hotel Gary announce the birth of a son. The infant's name is Alexander.

Bar Mitzvahs

Richard Kaplan
Joel Rosenblum

GARY—Shabbos Shuvah, the sabbath between Rosh Hashona and Yom Kippur, Oct. 2, was the scene of the double Bar Mitzvah ceremonies of Richard King Kaplan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Kaplan and Joel Renald Rosenbloom, son of Captain and Mrs. Philip J. Rosenbloom at the Beth El Temple.

The maftir was read by Joel and each boy delivered a talk in English.

Joel's Bar Mitzvah recalls to mind the day of his B'ris. His is the distinction of being the only child in Gary whose circumcision fell on Yom Kippur. It was performed before the entire congregation in the synagog. just as in olden times.

Both families served a joint sudah after services. The Rosenberg family went to Chicago Sunday, where Joel repeated his Bar Mitzvah talk before his 82 year old grandmother, Mrs. Moses Wolfberg, who was unable to attend the Gary ceremonies.

PRAYERS FOR SERVICEMEN, NAZI VICTIMS, FEATURE STATEWIDE YOM KIPPUR PLANS

Statewide observance of Yom Kippur, beginning tonight with Kol Nidre services, has been scheduled, with special prayers for servicemen and for Nazi victims planned in all synagogues.

Rabbi Irving A. Weingart of B'nai Jacob Congregation, Ft. Wayne, will address his congregation on "Destructive Sins" at Kol Nidre services tonight. His Saturday morning address will be, "Design for Living."

At Temple Beth-El in Hammond, Rabbi Adolph J. Feinberg will officiate at Day of Atonement services aided by an augmented Holy day choir conducted by Gilbert Ford, Chicago choirmaster. Special prayers will be offered for American and United Nation's men in the armed forces and for victims of Nazi oppression. At Hammond's Knesseth Israel Synagogue, Kol Nidre and Yom Kippur services will be chanted by Cantor Jacob Bergman assisted by a choir of local Jewish boys. Rabbi J. Mishkin of Chicago will deliver the sermon Saturday morning.

In South Bend Kol Nidre services will be held at both the Hebrew Orthodox Congregation, and Congregation Sons of Israel at 6 p. m. Rabbi Aaron M. Rine will address the Congregation Sons of Israel on, "Wherefore Repent?" Services will be resumed at 8 a. m. Saturday, Oct. 9. Rabbi Rine will speak at the Hebrew Orthodox Congregation at 10:30 a. m. on, "One Significant Hour." At 11:00 a. m. he will address Congregation Sons of Israel on, "Memory and Meditation." Both sermons will be followed by the recitation of Yizkor. Rev. J. Berkover and Cantor Jonah J. Stone of Chicago will chant the prayers at the Hebrew Orthodox Congregation, and Rev. L. Feldman, and Cantor Louis Prale of Chicago, will recite the prayers at the Congregation Sons of Israel.

At Sons of Abraham Synagogue, Terre Haute, Rabbi Aaron Gorbaty's sermon on Kol Nidre night will be based on "The Significance of Atonement" and on Saturday morning the subject will be "Parents, Child and Immortality of Soul." In Temple Israel, Rabbi Meyer H. Simon's sermon on Kol Nidre night will be "Spiritual Blackout." Services start at 8 p. m. On Saturday morning services will begin at 9:30 and the sermon will be "Atonement in a Living Religion." Memorial services will begin at 3:30 p. m. and the sermon will be "End of the Journey." Army, Navy and Marine Service Men at Purdue will attend all services and home hospitality has been arranged for them.

Kol Nidre services at Evansville's Adath Israel Synagogue will be held at 6:15 p. m. The topic of Rabbi Joseph Gorfinkel's sermon will be, "A Question Which Must Be Answered."

Tomorrow the services will begin at 8:00 a. m. and Yizkor service will be held at 10:00 a. m. The Saturday morning sermon will be "Yizkor—A Pledge Not a Plea." Children's service will be held at 3:00 p. m. The Washington Avenue Temple will hold Kol Nidre services at 8:00 p. m. Friday. Saturday services will begin at 10 a. m. and the memorial service will be held at 4:00 p. m. Yom Kippur services will commence at 7:00 p. m. with the Kol Nidre at the B'nai Moshe Synagogue, with continued services at 8:30 a. m. Saturday. Chaplain Jacob M. Ott will conduct the Yom Kippur services at Camp Breckinridge.

HORWITZ—ZOLTEN ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Lennie Horwitz, fast working editor of the Michigan City B'nai B'rith Bulletin, was unable to edit this month's issue. Why? Well, it's like this, he met a young lady, Miss Hilda Zolten, of Mckeesport, Pa., and in the course of some fourteen hours they subsequently spent together, it was agreed that there be a bit of a wedding along about Thanksgiving. So he so excited another Lennie, this time Berkowitz, had to take over the paper work!

OH, TO BE IN ENGLAND . . .

If you see Mrs. Ruth Lurie of Michigan City wandering about the sand dunes with one stocking off and one stocking on, you may want to know the wherefore. Ruth and her husband Bernie were in West Palm Beach, Fla., and while there she sent one precious Nylon out for repair. Before it was returned Bernie was transferred to Jefferson Barracks, Mo., to New York, to England. The Nylon followed. See?

FEDERATION BULLETIN PRAISES RABBIS

The Bulletin of the Fort Wayne Jewish Federation commends highly the services of that city's rabbis in ministering to the needs of service men located there. The article says: "Probably the most important single job that is being done in connection with the program of the Army and Navy Committee is being done by our rabbis, Irving A. Weingart and Frederic A. Doppelt. Their work is being done with the devotion and faithfulness which is characteristic of them.

"Every Thursday night, regardless of the weather or personal obligations, one of the rabbis visits Baer Field to conduct services and visits the sick in the hospital. The boys bring their personal problems to them. One boys wants a letter written in Yiddish to his mother who cannot read English. Another needs the comforting security that comes from a heart-to-heart talk with a spiritual leader. This boy has fallen in love but is not sure he should marry. That one is making a difficult adjustment to the Army and wants guidance in improving his adjustment.

"Tragedy and joy call the rabbis out to the Base on many occasions. An accident in which a Jewish boy is killed; a wedding in the few hours that are left to the couple and perhaps their families before the groom's departure for some overseas post; the birth of a baby to some Army couple stationed here.

"The meeting of these basic needs—this is the stuff of which morale is built. Our community may well rejoice and take pride in our 'builders', Rabbi Weingart and Rabbi Doppelt."

Gym Schedules Set At Kirshbaum

Regular gynasium activities at Kirshbaum Center will be resumed during the week of Oct. 24 under Roy Aberson, physical education director. Sara's Column

By SARA MESSING STERN

A BAR MITZVAH solemnized Rosh Hashonah morning, the Shofar blown by the Rabbi of a reform Temple, characterized the services of Temple Israel, Lafayette, Ind., which I was privileged to attend. Louis Pearlman, Jr., ("Buddy") who was Bar Mitzvah, is the son of Louis and Beatrice Pearlman. Another son, Pvt. David Pearlman, 21, is "somewhere in Africa." Pvt. Pearlman's letter from Africa was timed to reach his dear ones for Buddy's Bar Mitzvah. He wrote that Pvt. Robert Kussell Levin—he is the son of the Harry Levins of Indianapolis—"came over in the same convoy, though I did not find that out until after we all arrived here. . . Kussell and I are going for a swim in the Mediteranean, the first of this week. We hike or hitch a ride. It's several miles away, but it will sure be worth it. . . We sleep in pup tents with mosquito bars." He writes further, "Kussell looks well, feels fine and sends best to his folks.

THE LAFAYETTE TEMPLE SISTERHOOD Board is in favor of evening meetings. A survey of membership showed that more than half would come evenings who, for lack of maid service during war time, could not leave their children during the day. Other women help in their husbands' businesses during the day. The older members who were irregular in attending Sisterhood afternoon meetings will try to come evenings, also. The plan sounds good. Other Sisterhoods might find it the cure for small attendance at meetings.

Temple Sisterhood Plans Luncheon

The Beth El-Zedeck Sisterhood will hold a luncheon meeting at 12:30 p. m. Monday, Oct. 11. The speaker will be Rabbi Israel Chodos. Also on the program are piano selections by Mrs. Evelyn Borofsky Roskin. Co-chairmen of luncheon are Mesdames Aaron Glick, Sidney Shane and Les Shane. Other assisting are the Mesdames Arthur Barrett, Louis Cohen, M. Pozner, N. Rappaport and M. Michelson. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Leo Miroff, Hu. 7493.

The editor's chair,

Somewhere, somehow, my name has gotten out as George M. Cohen. How or where this name originated for me I don't know, but somewhere in some publication or list I am represented by that name and hardly a day goes by without me getting mail addressed to the editor of The Jewish Post, George M. Cohen. I have nothing against the name, except that it isn't mine. Could be I have a dual life, and when in my other life, I go by that name, but I don't recollect anything like that, although if you think I don't have two personalities you should see me when I'm sober. Anyhow my first name is Gabriel, a name very common in my family, for there were three of us all first cousins, at one time. We are named after my paternal grandfather, of blessed memory.

Serve 220 Servicemen

At Kirshbaum Center, 220 Servicemen supper guests were served last Sunday by a committee of members of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation, with Mrs. Louis Lurie and Mrs. Arthur Cassel as co-chairmen. The committee included Mesdames Nat Smith, Mortimer Mann, Ralph Fink, Roger Kahn, Theodore Dann, Lois Litzter, Bernard Rosenak, William Schloss, Arthur Levy, Robert Efroymson, M. J. Abrahamson, Sidney Salinger, Julian Bamberger, Ralph Cole, Marc Cohen, Paul Mode, Henry Silver, Marc Frank, Morris Jacobs, Walter Lichtenstein, Joseph Engelberg, Morris Rothbard, Jack Maurer, and Miss Evalyn Jacobs.

This week's supper was served by Miss Rosalie Lurvey and Miss Helaine Borinstein co-chairmen, Miss Helen Asher, Mrs. Lucille Cohen, Mrs. Maurice Block Jr., Mrs. Ruth Lieberman, Mrs. Rachel Weil, Miss Ruth Weinbeg, Mrs. Gordon Cohn, Mrs. Jack Efroymson, Mrs. M. Interim Committee Meeting Must Be Open To Press

THE FIRST meeting of the Interim Committee of American Jewish Conference called for next Friday in New York should get the same type of publicity that was permitted at the Conference proper. Regardless of the contention of the American Jewish Committee group, the Conference is, if it wants to be, the ruling authority in American Jewish life, and as such, its deliberations should be open to the Jewish public in the same manner as the sessions of a legislature.

For if the American Jewish public is to see its wishes translated into action by the Conference, then it must know what goes on, so it can transmit these wishes to its representatives. And the way it will know what goes on will be through the Anglo-Jewish press, it is to be hoped, or through the Jewish Post at least.

Make Being Jewish Popular

THROUGHOUT THE country, in congregation bulletins in local Anglo-Jewish weeklies, and in organs of national organizations, appeals are being made in connection with Jewish Education Month. In addition, this year leaders of American Jewry issued a statement urging that every Jewish child be given a thorough Jewish education.

Unquestionably there has come about a realization on the part of those who are aware of what is going on in the American Jewish scene, that Jewish education must include every Jewish child of school age.

Yet in view of all these appeals, the enrollment in religious schools has probably not increased even one per cent throughout the nation.

Appealing to parents to send their children to a religious school or to parents to attend synagogue services will get nowhere except in isolated cases. What is needed is a complete reorientation in the thinking of American Jewry, from the very bottom.

The Jew who doesn't attend services would in this utopian situation be made to be a social outcast in the Jewish community just as he is almost today a pariah when he doesn't perform his duty in connection with Jewish philanthropy.

The Jewish child who doesn't attend a religious school must be made to feel the full force of social ostracism, the way his parents would be made to feel if the child did not attend public or private school.

When we get to this point, then all the ills of American Jewish life which we so far have seemed to hope to cure by attacking individually and superficially will automatically disappear.

In other words being Jewish must be made to be popular.

Al Segal Answered

THE POST doesn't like to answer Al Segal, if it can possibly avoid it, and still has hopes that some of the Indiana Zionists will take issue with him. Mr. Segal and The Post have the newspaperman's understanding that there can be differences of opinion. The only other question involved is one of sincerity and honesty, and The Post thinks no one would question Mr. Segal in these respects.

Of course there are people that contend that The Post shouldn't print Segal's column because in their estimation he is not only wrong but is doing grave injury to the cause of Israel. His concern, they point out, is almost solely for the Arab. In the light of the present-day situation, they say, it is irresponsibility on the part of a paper to continue to allow Mr. Segal to broadcast his perverted views. The Post doesn't hold with these critics. The Post is not afraid of what Mr. Segal says, and if it threw his column out of the paper, it would be admitting to a degree, that he is right.

In his column this week, Mr. Segal in The Post's estimation is wrong again. His example of the Indians and Ohio is certainly far-fetched when compared to Palestine and the Jews. On his major point, however, Segal seems to be right. But his Arab friend is preaching the doctrine of the Arab landowner who resents Jewish intrusion because it raises the wages of the downtrodden Arab, and makes him dissatisfied with his unbelievably poverty-stricken state. The Post believes the Arab whose child is cured by the nurse or doctors from the Hadassah-Hebrew University Hospital, or the Arab who makes a living wage working for a Jew, would be content to exchange these advantages for the privilege that he probably never had, anyway, and which means nothing to him, now, of saying he is living in an Arab country. That is unless he were the subject of Axis propaganda. The Jew dispossesses no Arabs; in fact more Arabs have come into Palestine (attracted by the remarkable living conditions) than Jews since the Balfour Declaration.

However, The Post prefers to let Dr. Nahum Goldmann, of the Jewish Agency, answer Mr. Segal. Dr. Goldmann speaks authoritatively. These excerpts are from his address at the American Jewish Conference.

"As for the Arab argument, we have again and again not only said but proved in Palestine that nothing is further from our minds than the denial of the full rights of the Arab population in Palestine now and in the future. We realize fully that the welfare and the future of the Jewish people in Palestine depend on an understanding, not only with their Arab neighbors in Palestine, but with the neighboring Arab countries around Palestine. We are convinced that such an understanding will be reached, once the Arabs realize that in the light of Jewish tragedy and the necessity for solving the Jewish problem, the world has a right to ask them to make the concession of not claiming Palestine as an exclusively Arab country. Many peoples will have to make concessions towards social and political readjustments. Legally, Palestine for centuries has not been an Arab country,but a Turkish province. Militarily and historically the Arabs did not conquer Palestine from the Turks. The Allies did it in the last war and without a United Nations victory in this war not a shred of Arab independence would remain. The Arabs do not need Palestine in order to safeguard the future and the survival of the Arab world. Vast territories are at their disposal, which will take decades and centuries to develop. Practically, they would gain much more by cooperation with the Jewish people in the process than by a continued quarrel which will never make Palestine an Arab country again and which will only prolong unrest and strife in that part of the world.

"We have always hoped and hope today that an understanding between us and the Arabs will be possible. We tried it in Versailles and we achieved it when Feisal signed his agreement with Dr. Weizman. We are ready to try it again and again, but if the Arab leaders remain adamant and refuse to come to an understanding, then it will be up to the United Nations to do what they will have to do in many similar cases in all parts of the world—to pass judgment, to define policies and to lay down the rules for a just settlement of conflicting claims.

"If there is such a thing as social justice in the relations between peoples and countries, and not only between individuals and classes within a country, then certainly a people like ourselves, whose urgent necessity for a home has again been demonstrated by the slaughtering of 4 million of its sons and daughters in the last ten years, has precedence over the claims of the Arabs to have another smaller country as their exclusive property."

TOWN CRIER

By G. M. C.

The Michigan City B'nai B'rith publishes a live, alert mimeographed paper, which it sends to all the local Jewish men and women in the armed services. Knowing what the boys like, some of the cartoons and jokes are not the kind for a child. Anyway, our managing editor, Jane Calvelage, when I turned the sheet, which is called "P-X", over to her, remarked on the risque nature of some of the material. She may even have blushed. And our staff is not prudish by any stretch of the imagination.

I suppose it is nothing novel in many cities, but never having run across one in all my travels, I was interested in the heading "Our New Parking Lot" in the Temple Beth El Zion Bulletin (Buffalo, N. Y.). The article reads:

We are happy to announce to our membership that our newly acquired parcel of ground adjoining the Temple buildings to the north has been converted into a parking space for the exclusive use of our membership. In order that the space in our parking lot may be utilized to the fullest extent, young men of our Scout Troop will be stationed at the entrance of the parking lot to take care of cars as they come to the gate. These young men will park your car for you and return your car to you when you are ready to leave the Temple.

Says Anti-Semitism a Symptom; Disease Is Homelessness

To the editor:

I hope you will permit me to participate in your symposium about anti-Semitism and to try to answer your three questions as I know how. But before doing so, I must make myself clear, that for me anti-Semitism is not a sickness by itself, but a symptom of an existing sickness. Therefore is our job to cure the actual sickness and, naturally the symptoms of the illness will disappear by themselves.

Our actual sickness is — our homelessness, our statelessness, our abnormal national life and our miserable existence as a small minority, without any political representation; and naturally knowing our sickness it is much easier to cure it, at least, to write the right prescriptions.

Now to your questions: On your question I, my answer is: Yes! and am sorry to state that am expecting a larger uprise of it during the decade of the post-war period. The reason for it is that in abnormal times, when the people are suffering, are in distress, we are always the scape goats, the victims, the guilty ones in all misfortunes and hard luck.

On the second question, I answer that it always was, not only a public problem locally but a world problem, as a consequence of the world Jewish problem.

And, of course it is understood that on the third question my answer will be definitely negative for the simple reason that all their measurements are directed to cure the results of the disease and not the illness itself.

Speaking about the counteracting in detail, we can mention two major programs adopted by the agencies namely: (1) The publication of pamphlets, booklets and other types of literature, mostly defending the Jews against anti-Semitic accusations and distributed between the clergy. I do not know how much good it does, being always of a defensive character and I never heard yet about any victory reached by defense strategy. Then I never met any Jew hater who changed his mind towards us to the good after reading a pamphlet. The general public was very seldom reached by these publications.

I sincrely believe that a very strong, united effort by all, practically all Jewish agencies, must be made to gain some political recognition; whether it be by a recognized government in exile representing the Palestinian Jews and all other stateless European Jews with recognized embassies and counsel offices in all the capitals of the world; or whether it be by extending more political rights to the Jewish agency or to the world Jewish Congress and establishing similar official recognized offices. The results will be thousands and thousands of times more effective than millions of tons of pamphlets.

The second counteractivity the famous "good will meetings." These gatherings were always 100 per cent Jewish audiences. where a Catholic priest, mostly Irish origin, a Protestant Reverend, always English stock and always a Reform Rabbi were trying their best to influence the Jewish audience not to hate the Jews.

Well, good will meetings are worth while, even, when they will not abolish anti-Semitism, but they must be organized on the national base and not on the religious one. There are in existence Polish people, Lithuanians, Hungarians, Romanians, Swedes, Norwegians, Slovaks and many others and none of them expect to disappear and we Jews ought to support their aspirations.

Meetings with all these national groups with their respective representatives, not only by their clergy, but also by their secular leaders, would do a lot of good to us Jews also.

Poetess Describes Shofar's Meaning

To the editor,

THE SHOFAR'S MESSAGE

For those who felt the blade of steel
Across their throats,
Or heard their breastbones crash
Beneath a bullet's force,
The Shofar sounded taps.
They are the martyred dead
Who kept faith with faith.
They are the martyred dead
Who faced without remorse
A fury of hate and force,
Not, in vain.

For those whose backs were shred
By lashing whips
Or those whose flesh was ripped
And torn by sabres sharp,
The Shofar sounded hope.
They are the wanderers poor
Who roam without aim.
They are the victims poor
Who keep faith with faith
And endure all pain
Not, in vain.

For us who living be
Yet, who unaware,
Shut our eyes in lethargy
To human pain,
The Shofar sounded reveille.
We must waken and again avow
To keep faith with faith.
We must wake and succor speed
By every effort and every deed
If our living be
Not in vain.

ON THE RECORD

HOURS OF DECISION

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

(Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

IN A PREVIOUS column, called "The German Retreat and Offensive," I tried, as best I could, to analyze the German military and political strategy at this moment, the object of which is to win the peace. I pointed out that the only thing that makes this strategy possible is the lack of an agreement with Russia. And I ended the column by saying that it will be impossible to reach an agreement without a change in our policy.

What is that policy?

I CONFESS THAT I do not know, but I believe I do know how it looks to the Russians—and that happens to be what is important.

No great country likes to see the rise of an overwhelming power that alone may determine the course of history for a century. That is why the whole world is fighting Germany—in order that we and the rest of mankind shall not live on terms dictated by "one power or group of powers." Historically speaking it is always a secondary question what national character or form of government powers seeking the hegemony of the world may have. Even if the powers governing the world may promise the most genial and tolerant rule the instinct of the world moves towards freedom and equality and not toward however benevolent a domination.

Should the Anglo-American combination seek and obtain the position of being arbiter of the world, I assume, as will all my compatriots, that the world will be much better off than it would under anyone else's domination. But I also know that the world will not like it.

Now the Russians, looking at our behavior, not at our words, must suspect that that is our aim. What reasons have they for suspecting it?

First, the treatment accorded the European governments, and specifically the French Committee of National Liberation. Whatever our plans for the future, the treatment accorded it until now indicates that we expect France to be a third-rate power. The same holds true for other governments in exile. The assumption seems to be that their present dependency upon us indicates a permanent condition of affairs.

We have made it abundantly clear that we intend utterly to eliminate Germany and Italy as power structures, under whatever form of government may emerge in those countries. So Europe, after this war, will be a power vacuum.

Who is to move into this vacuum? History teaches us that there is no such thing as a permanent vacuum.

There are three possibilities: First, the vigorous revival of Europe in harmony with both Britain and Russia. If this is our policy there is thus far not the slightest indication of it.

Second, the division of Europe into spheres of influence between Russia and Britain or the Anglo-American powers. This would be an unfortunate policy, practically insuring the next war, but it is apparently not our policy, since we do not agree with the Russians regarding their eastern frontiers, and have developed a detailed program for the Anglo-American occupation and administration of Germany, without Russia's consent.

So the presumption is that our policy is the third: namely, to take over, however temporarily, the control of Europe. The arguments made are that Europe will have to be fed, and only we can feed her; that Russia will be devastated herself that she will not be able to take a hand; and that Europe must be protected by us against chaos and revolution.

MEANWHILE WE INTEND to defeat and occupy Japan, and control the Pacific.

NOW, IN WHAT I have to say, I am rigorously excluding my personal prejudices. My personal prejudices are with the Anglo-American powers. But seen from Moscow—seen by any government in Moscow, Communist, Tsarist, or Democratic, this must be a dismaying picture. The great sea and airpowers of the earth are closing in on the Eurasian continent from every corner and apparently with permanent intentions to police the world.

And unless the whole of Eurasia—the great continent on which live nine-tenths of all the peoples of the earth are prepared to agree to this—they will sooner or later ally themselves against it.

NOW, THE APPREHENSION of something like this is bound to influence the Russian attitude toward Germany, Europe as a whole, and China. The Russian interest will lie in reviving and strengthening Europe, including eventually Germany, and in developing the immense forces of China.

And the great asset that Russia will have on her side is the self-interest of these countries, and particularly of the European countries.

The only basis of an understanding with Russia is the permanent limitation of our interests, together with the permanent limitation of Russian interests, and the putting into the forefront of our policy the permanent interests in freedom and equality of every people on this globe.

If this is our policy, a conference between Russia and the Anglo-American powers makes sense. If it is not—then the ultimate decisions on this earth will be left to a bloody history.

Governor Sponsors Roger Williams Project

"This thoughtful act will serve to associate the ideal of religious freedom on which our state was founded by Roger Williams with the Jewish pioneers who are today laying the foundation of the Jewish Homeland upon the sacred soil of their past." declared Hon. J. Howard McGrath, governor of the state of Rhode Island (fourth from left) to a delegation of Jewish communal leaders who called upon him to invite him to serve as Honorary President of the Nachlath Roger Williams Council. Jewish National Fund, has undertaken to redeem in Palestine an extensive tract of land which is to bear the name of Roger Williams who founded Rhode Island as a haven for those who sought freedom from religious and political persecution.

Sympathy for Jewish aspirations and sufferings was expressed in London this week by Viscount Simon, Lord Chancellor, who is of Welsh ancestery, addressing a meeting at which his wife, Lady Simon, was presented with a certificate attesting that her name has been inscribed in the Jewish National Fund's Golden Book in Jerusalem.

Soviet Jews Send Greetings

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

TASHKENT, U. S. S. R.—A Rosh Hashonah message to the Jews of the United States on behalf of the Jews of the Soviet Union was given the Jewish Telegraphic Agency this week. The greetings, are signed by Samuel Chobrutsky, president of the Moscow Jewish Community, which has been functioning here since it was evacuated from the Russian capital when the city was in danger of falling to the Nazis.

Prof. Karl Sollner, the refugee scientist who recently made a notable contribution to America's war effort as a co-inventer of the "belly still," a portable device enabling shipwrecked sailors and airmen to manufacture drinking water from sea water, is now working on a major American home-front problem—abatement of the smoke nuisance—it was revealed this week by the National Refugee Service.

His Greatest Fight of All

WING COMMANDER BERG

NOT MANY of our youngsters may remember one of the most famous fighters of his day . . known throughout the British Empire as the Whitechapel Whirlwind and in this country as Jackie "Kid" Berg. Today, the former champ is a Wing Commander in the R.A.F.

Twice before in as many years we've done stories of this man—one of the most gallant fighting Jewish men we've ever had the pleasure of meeting. The first time was merely a short item to the effect that "Kid" Berg was in the biggest fight of all and had signed up with the R.A.F. Then last year, we received a letter from England telling us that Jackie had been made a flight-lieutenant. But best of all is the news that the "Kid" is now a wing-commander in charge of a squadron of Lancaster Bombers—those giant planes that have been blasting the stuffing out of the Herrenvolk.

But as we've said—some of you may never have heard of the Cheapside Laddie who tried to emulate the career of the great Benny Leonard. Tried to but never succeeded because he didn't have the stuff of which such great champs as Benny Leonard and Barney Ross are made. As fighters go, Jackie is an old man measured by the standard of the resined arena. At 38, he's still in the pink of condition, still spry, still agile and despite the many fights he's had in the ring, is still fully possessed of all his faculties and still surveying the scene with his eagle eyes—just the stuff of which R.A.F. pilot-champs are made.

Jackie was born in Cheapside, London's edition of New York's East Side. . . He had a tough life and found, at an early age, that the boy who succeeds was the boy who was best able to use his fists. And like so many other Jewish boys who had been born and bred in ghettos throughout the world, it was neccessary to adopt a scientific point of view when trying to use your fists against bullies and braggarts who outweighed you by as much as fifty pounds. "Use your head," was the advice he picked up from the old-timers and this sage warning plus a natural talent to use his hands—made a great fighter out of the slim, dark-haired Cheapside Kid.

Career Parallels Benny Leonard's

Entering the professional ring at various clubs—Jackie boxed weekly for a "couple of quid" that the manager handed out. And here again (it's really amazing how Berg's career so closely parallels that of Benny Leonard) he was following in the footsteps of the undefeated lightweight king who also had fought his first fight in the back pool room for thirty cents. That was the start. He won bout after bout throughout England. His most formidable opponent was another Jewish kid—also a product of the Cheapside district—a youngster by the name of Harry Mizzler. The Berg-Mizzler bouts were the equivalent of the Leonard-Tendler scraps that set this nation on its sporting ear during the early twenties. Mizzler and Berg alternated at being the kingpins of the 135 and 143 pound weight divisions. Both were champions not only of England and the British Isles, but of the British Empire as well. But only Berg sailed the ocean in quest of bigger fray—the championship of the world held by Tony Canzoneri.

Berg fought Tony—one of the gamest Italian fighters the resined arena has ever seen. He fought and lost. He remained here for some time and then went in quest of the newly created junior welterweight title held by Mushy Callahan—an orthodox Jew despite his unorthodox name. Mushy had held the title since its inception in 1926 and lost to "Kid" Berg. Jackie held this title for some time . . . the meanwhile touring America, and pocketing some tidy sums. He lost out to Canzoneri (Barney Ross later knocked out Tony for both lightweight and the junior welterweight titles.)

After the loss of his title to Canzoneri, Berg sailed for home. He was acclaimed a national hero and fought Harry Mizzler a couple of more times—in England and in Africa. When the depression hit England and the country was on the dole, Berg too felt the repercussions. He returned to America for a second trip and despite his advanced age of 32, went after the welterweight title then held by Barney Ross. But by the time the "Kid" earned a crack at that title, Barney had lost to Hank Armstrong.

Called Great Sportsman

The record books will tell you that Berg didn't go home with the title but he did go home with a record unsurpassed for a man of his years. He was called "one of the greatest sportsmen ever to come from England." Such praise was universal and every boxing writer in the country attested to it and when news of the Kid's retirement at 33 reached this side of the Atlantic, many a fan and reporter wagged his head. They sighed because a good guy, and a guy who had everything it takes to be a champion, just hadn't the breaks go his way; they sighed because they knew that had the "Kid" appeared on the scene five years before or five years after the time he did, he would have been the undisputed lightwight and welterweight champion of the world.

But all this was years ago and Berg was relegated to the limbo of past history. That is he was until the war broke out. Berg volunteered immediately. He was sent to a ground school to be a mechanic, but he studied gunnery and trained for the job of fighter pilot. He just didn't have it in his blood to stay out of the fray; to be the sidelines when the going was thickest and all the action in the ring. He chafed at the bit and wanted to get "up there in the sky." He got his wish.

Today Berg is a Wing Commander in his Majesty's Royal Air Force. He is thrice decorated. No wonder then that we say as we've said twice before to the kid. "Good luck to you—in this your greatest fight of all."

U. S., Britain Tell Buyers of Nazi Loot Deals Invalid

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

WASHINGTON — Britain and the United States struck this week at a plan for safeguarding Nazi loot by fake transfers to neutrals.

In a statement issued simulaneously here and in London, the State Department and Foreign Office said that "the governments reserve the right to treat as invalid any transfer to neutral ownership of any enemy-owned rights or interests in property in Italy." It emphasized that "nationals or firms in neutral countries acquiring or purporting to acquire such rights or interests render themselves liable to all sanctions at the disposal of the governments of the United States of America and the United Kingdom."

The Nazis have regularly acquired choice property of all kinds —from sculptures to securities—in occupied countries, following "strictly legal" forms, but using exrta-legal pressures, including torture and threat of torture of the property's owner. This system was first applied in Germany itself to Jews and anti-Nazis, who were thoroughly looted before they were driven from the country or imprisoned.

Yom Kippur Dance Set In South Bend

Special

SOUTH BEND—Final plans for the annual Yom Kippur night dance which will be held Oct. 9 at the Institute were formulated at a meeting held on Wedneesday evening, Oct. 6 at the Hebrew Institute. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. David Moss, Mrs. Ted Halasz and Joseph Newman. Night club style will prevail, and a floor show will be featured. Refreshments will be available at reasonable prices, and admission is 55 cents per couple.

Junior Hadassah Plans Party— At a meeting held Sunday, Oct. 3, in Temple Beth-El, plans were made for a Hallowe'en party to be given Oct. 30 in the Izaak Walton clubhouse. Co-chairmen of the party are the Misses Zelma Zonenberg and Sylvia Paskin. Miss Paskin was also named chairman of philanthropic activities for the year, and their first project is to collect clothes for Russian relief. Delegates to the national convention Nov. 25-27 in Cleveland, O., are the Misses Irene Halasz and Elsie Weinstein and Mrs. Irving Rosenbaum.

Home on Furlough

SOUTH BEND—Tech. Sgt. Max Denoff of Pecos Air Field, Texas, where he is with the finance division, is on furlough visiting his father, Morris, and sister, Mrs. Jack Victor, who reside at 2930 Mishawaka Ave. He has been accompanied by his wife Laura, who was with him in Texas.

Gets Honorable Discharge

TERRE HAUTE — Sgt. Gabe Rubin has been honorably discharged from service. Sgt. Rubin is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Shotsky and a brother of David Rubin.

Holiday Services Set on All Fronts By Jewish Chaplains

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK — Fifty Jewish chaplains, regularly assigned to overseas stations, conducted hundreds of Rosh Hashonah services from New Guinea to Italy, it was announced this week by the Jewish Welfare Board. Last Rosh Hashonah there were only thirteen Jewish chaplains serving overseas.

"Supplies for the High Holy Day services have been sent overseas by the Jewish Welfare Board to the fifty Jewish chaplains and to fifty-seven Christian chaplains in centrally located points for distribution in their area," the announcement said.

The Jewish Welfare Board began its preparations as far back as last November when the first shipments were made to overseas points. Since that date the following supplies have been shipped: 175,000 JWB abridged prayer books for New Year and Day of Atonement, 30,000 complete mahzorim, 450 000 New Year greeting cards, 150,000 educational leaflets describing the significance of the High Holy Days, 10,000 voice records for New Year greetings and a quantity of prayer shawls, shofroth and other religious articles.

A cabled request from General Eisenhower's office for an additional 3,000 mahzorim and 10,000 greeting cards has also been met by the JWB.

Jewish chaplains carrying JWB supplies also were on hand in bivouac maneuver areas in this country as well as ports of embarkation and transports to conduct High Holy Day services. All USO clubs and their staffs cooperated in the High Holy Day arrangements. The congregation of the Methodist Church of Norman, Oklahoma, has offered its facilities to the local JWB Committee for Jewish Services. It was expected that other churches would do likewise in small towns where there is no synagogue or temple.

Now Lt. Schrager

SOUTH BEND—Lt. Howard N. Schrager received his commission at Camp Davis, N. C., and spent a short furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Schrager.

Promoted to Captain

SOUTH BEND—First Lt. Marvin H. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Smith, was promoted to captain. He has just returned from active duty in North Africa.

IS THERE NO HOPE?

Reporter Sees Franz Werfel

By HELEN ZIGMOND

THE OLD YEAR is ending—the blackest year in all Jewish history. The shofar calls in a New Year. A page is turned—a clean page in the Book of Time. Will it, too, be spattered with Jewish blood? What of the Jew? Is there no hope?

One man I thought might have an answer. He who sang of Abraham and the Prophets; he who wrote of Jeremiah and ancient Palestine; he who himself but recently escaped the Hitler Hell. I would ask Franz Werfel. What of the Jew? What of Germany? What of peace in the world?

I approached the door of his home a bit timidly. A mystic, say his reviewers. How does one talk to a mystic? But the door was standing open in welcome . . . the house was smiling with sunshine. And when he came into the room one felt "all greatness is unconscious." There stood a short stocky man with curly greying locks combed back somewhat long like an artist's bob. A man of serious mien, with strongly-chiseled features, high brow, prominent nose, forward chin. One somehow is reminded of the shaggy-browed Beethoven.

The tragedy of the Jews, his escape from death by the Nazis, his writing of "Bernadette," and the rumor of his conversion to Catholicism are all bound up in one—as four knots on a single thread.

Reported Slain by Nazis

In the horror-filled days of 1940 Werfel was reported slain by the Nazis. He was missing . . . it was true . . . but he and his wife had escaped into France. There, in Lourdes, they hid from the Gestapo. In the room next to theirs the Nazis had a supply depot and could be heard fetching things in and out. Friendly people watched and warned the fugitives to keep hidden and to speak no word of German. Week after week they waited for their exit visa, but official red-tape delayed. Finally Werfel decided to try to cross into Spain. They actually made the trip over the Pyreness on foot! At the border, more delay, more official puppetry. When at last they were permitted to cross, both he and his wife were on the verge of collapse.

In spite of all this . . . in spite of the ghastly carnage in Europe, he says, "Concerning the Jews, I am an optimist! The Jew is a Chosen People! They may slaughter him, scatter him, tear him to a thousand remnants, but the continuity of the Jew will not be broken. For the Jew has a mission—a divinely—appointed task."

To him the spiritual task of the Jew is a hundred times more important than his need for a home. Maybe fifteen or twenty per cent of Europe's Jews will be wiped out, but the chain will not be severed. Like a stern prophet he exhorts Israel to go on living. In short—his passionate credo is, "We Will Never Die!"

"The hatred and persecution of the Jew is against all moral conception. A spiritual rebirth is what the world needs today. And therein lies Judaism's present link with Christianity. They are inextricably bound up together. They derive from a single root. The survival of Christianity is dependent on the survival of Judaism. This is not a religious, but a historical phenomenon. The Jews created a great world religion. From it sprang the Christian religion. Together they must recreate mankind."

Werfel has always striven for a better understanding between Christians and Jews. His efforts, climaxed by his recent book, have given rise to the story that he has embraced Catholism. The report has had wide circulation without a shred of truth. "I am a Jew," he answers simply. "I am a Jew." Mrs. Werfel, with a twinkle, confided, that when a gossiper whispered the rumor to Stephen Wise, the latter answered, "Franz Werfel could never become a Church convert. Alma (Werfel's wife and a Gentile) would never permit it!" Why should being a Jew preclude his sympathetic comprehension of another faith? Why should his religion restrict the scope of an artist's creation?

Mankind Creates Conditions

Through his works runs the theme of Faith. I asked if he has great faith in humanity. "It is rather a great pity for human kind that I feel. I am keenly conscious of the weakness of human nature. There are those who believe man's troubles are due to his economic conditions; that if conditions change, mankind will change. I believe the reverse is true. Mankind creates his conditions, not they, him.

"The world, however, is in the midst of a great revolution—economic, social, and not the least, philosophic. After suffering for thirty years through two wars, we must come to some new idea of material and spiritual realms. In these last years we have reached the peak of our industrialization, and are no longer surprised at our progress. We must now go back to the metaphysical. I am aware of this in literature and art. A turning back from the cynicism of the Twenties to discover new profundities in all the arts in place of cheap intellectualism.

"As for peace in this world," he shook his head. "Probably never—for this is a tragic world. In the struggle of the atoms there is no peace. Among the flowers, the animals, the insects, as among humans, there is no peace. Perhaps we can overcome this natural bellicosity among men by human laws—but only to a degree. Every generation since the beginning of history has begun with the same problem. There is very little progress through the heredity of experience. We may—after this war—enjoy a period of relative calm."

Dismember Germany

What to do with Germany? First, very heavy punishment should be meted out to the guilty ones. Then Germany should be dismembered, especially Prussia.

Editor's Note: This is the conclusion of last week's article on the same subject. Readers are invited to write in their own opinions on the subject. Two such letters are printed in the "Freedom of the Press" section this week.

Rabbi Harold P. Smith, Gary—Is anti-Semitism on the increase? Yes, definitely. My observation has been that despite the fact that we have on our side a world-wide array of potent force and manpower to strike down the ugly serpent of Fascism and presumably its concomitant theories of race hatred, there has been, almost paradoxically, a surging wave of reaction that is daily sweeping more otherwise intelligent people off their solid footing into the poisoned waters of prejudice and malignant thinking. The primary reason, I should say, is the increased suffering and sacrifice caused by the war as time elapses, with the usual result that the scapegoat psychology takes root, aided and abetted by malicious propaganda, prejudice and ignorance of what the other fellow is made of and trying to do to you. Wars, in general, entail unhealthy consequences as far as anti-Semitism is concerned, and this one is no exception.

Not only do I think anti-Semitism is becoming a public problem in the United States, but I think it has been just that for a long time, irrespective of whether or not the public and its leaders have recognized it as such. The presence of a malignant cancerous growth on the body of democracy cannot conceivably be termed merely the problem of the spot on the body where it has settled. It is the problem of the whole body, which lives or dies together with that spot. Toleration of race prejudice such as that which caused the death of Congressman Edelstein on the floor of the United States Congress as he rose to repudiate a vicious slur against his people voiced without warrant or fact by another Congressman, is a corrosive defilement of democracy and all it stands for, and as such is very much of a public problem.

No, I am not satified with present counteractive steps. Though I am quite ready to give due credit to such organizations as B'nai B'rith's Anti-Defamation League, the Jewish Congress, the American Jewish Committee, National Conference of Christians and Jews, and the many others—all of whom have been doing very commendable work—I nevertheless feel that there is a woeful lack of coordination between the various groups which redounds to the detriment of the general cause. I further feel that concerted action on a coordinated scale might make progress in the direction of, or even accomplish, what I consider to be a sine qua non in the solution of the problem: the passing of some effective legislation that would make the utterance of the prejudicial sentiments that are inimical to the welfare of any segment of the American population a crime punishable by law to a far greater degree than it is now. Finally, I think that one of the aspects of fighting anti-Semitism that has been overlooked is that the strengthening of Semitism would constitute an automatic weakening of anti-Semitism. Pride in one's Jewishness and noble spiritual heritage makes Jews that are less vulnerable to the effects of anti-Semitism and are consequently less injured by its venomous claws. Unlearned Jews of apologetic and escapist tendencies, on for the Arabs."

Harry Zeigler, Muncie—The answer to the first question is "yes." A number of surveys have recently been made of the rising of anti-Semitism in this country. They all agreed approximately in the conclusion that the political opinion of the majority of the American people is being influenced and moulded, in some degree, by the poisonous anti-Semitic propaganda of the Nazi type. There have been a number of violent attacks against the Jews, their religious institutions, their business and their homes. Its influence is being shown in some of our government circles in Washington, in the newspapers and by other influential political persons.

In answer to the second question, "yes." As we are approaching the beginning of the end of this war we as Jews and Americans have great hopes that the victory of the United Nations will inaugurate a new era of human progress, but we must realize that anti-Semitism will not automatically disappear at the end of this war. After the defeat of Hitler, the reactionary forces in America will not resign and tendencies toward bigotry discrimination and intolerance will in fact become more articulate, like after the first world war, a quarter of a century ago. The menace of anti-Semitism is not only a problem to American Jewry, but to our democracy and civilization. "When Hitler declared war on the Jews in 1932, he declared war on democracy and civilization."

In answer to the third question, "no." I do not agree with the program of some of the defense organizations and leaders, who assume that the proper way to combat anti-Semitism is by fighting it with dignity, under cover, by belittling it or ignoring it; to let things blow over. The poisonous anti-Semitic propaganda must be combatted with more seriousness, with better constructive plans, by counter education and other effective measures of counter attack, to present the facts and the real reasons of anti-Semitism, in the press, in the school, in the churches, by radio and other means of communication.

Our people disagree with the Soviet policies on many points of the political and social life, but there can be no doubt that, in its fight against anti-Semitism, the U. S. S. R. has given a lead to those who take the problem seriously, and Jews in this country and all other American people must take it seriously now, before it is too late and too little.

RABBI'S MESSAGE

By RABBI AARON M. RINE
South Bend

ANOTHER YEAR has rolled by, a year of blood and sweat, of massacre and untold destruction. In the midst of this world catastrophe, the Jewish people is once again preparing to usher in the holiest days on its calendar. It is well that we pause for the spiritual upliftment which this season affords, for just as the diver has need to come to the surface to inhale a breath of pure air, so must we occasionally take time to become spiritually refreshed.

Rosh Hashonah and Yom Kippur are days of august grandeur and great solemnity beckoning us to repentance and moral introspection. It is very essential that we pause for this spiritual tonic now, when most of us are so busy and preoccupied with war work. Too many are apt to think that furtherance of the war effort can be realized only through physical participation in various war projects. Although we do not minimize the importance of such activities, it is necessary to remember the sacred values for which we are fighting. Spiritual fortitude has always been the first line of defense for our People, and was always the bulwark for all nationalities. Let us, therefore, not overlook in our war-time enthusiasm the very essence for which we are striving.

These Holy days, then, serve as dynamos that supply us with religious strength and insure our moral equilibrium and stability, which is so threatened in time of war. They are capable of elevating us and inspiring us to Divine heights; to great achievements and even sacrifices when necessary.

May G-d help us attain these heights, and inspire us to more intellectual, Jewish living. May He accept our prayers and grant us a year of life and a lasting peace. May the New Year bring healing to all suffering humanity, and a salvation to our stricken people.

NON-JEW HEADS COMMUNITY CAMPAIGN FOR UNITED JEWISH APPEAL IN HAMMOND

Special

NEW YORK —Non-Jews have contributed on numerous occasions to local campaigns for the rescue of Jews abroad, for Palestine reconstruction and for refugee aid in the United States, but this week it was reported that for the first time in the five-year history of the United Jewish Appeal for Refugees, Overseas Needs and Palestine, a Christian has assumed the chairmanship of a Jewish community's drive. In Hammond, Ind., James Post, a non-Jew, heads the campaign "High Command" for the unified drive in behalf of the Joint Distribution Committee, United Palestine Appeal and National Refugee Service.

Putting his business obligations aside, Mr. Post is these days spending all his time in organizing the Jewish communal forces, conferring with Jewish leaders, studying prospect cards and going over the general campaign strategy.

Immediate action on the part of the United States government to save the Jewish people of Europe, "would not be outside the tradition of our country," declared Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in a letter to Mr. Dean Alfange, vice-chairman of the Emergency Committee to Save the Jewish People of Europe. "In the latter part of the 19th century, and again in the early part of the 20th century, our government was instrumental in staying the hands of certain European governments infected with bigotry and sadism from destroying large groups of the Jewish people and other persecuted minorities," he declared.

Mrs. Eva Walvosky Succumbs at 92

Special

SOUTH BEND—Mrs. Eva Walvosky, 92, died at 2:45 p. m. Friday, Oct. 1, in the home of her daughter, Mrs. William Shavel, 135 Laurel St., after five years' illness. She leaves a son, Solomon Walvos, of Mishawaka; 16 grandchildren, four great-grandchildren, in addition to two sons and a daughter in Russia. The funeral was held Sunday at the residence. Rabbi Aaron M. Rine officiated and burial was in the Hebrew Orthodox Cemetery at Mishawaka.

AL SEGAL Speaks On MY COUSIN

IN WASHINGTON I met an Arab and I bought him a cocktail and he bought me one. I heard later that, being a Moslem, he should not have let a cocktail enter his system, contrary to holy Moslem laws. But is was a very good whiskey sour with the right flavoring and he enjoyed it and Allah himself approved, it seems, for he let the law-breaking Arab go happily on his way instead of striking him dead in the cocktail bar.

He was, indeed, an Arab in whom Allah or Jehovah could well delight, for he was a very nice gentleman. I hope only that all my Zionist friends will delight in him also after they hear what he thinks about this and that and especially about Zionism.

He started off by calling me his cousin. He felt we belonged to the same Semitic family, and what are we fighting about, anyway? He said cousins needn't love each other if they don't want to, but at least they should respect each other's rights. If they respected each others' rights there would be nothing to fight about, would there?

"Yes, cousin," he said, "that's the only way for us cousins to get along."

I, he went on to say, was a cousin of his who left Palestine ever so long ago to make my own way in the world, and I've been pretty nearly everywhere. . . "You've been away about 2000 years."

He himself, however, chose to stay with the old homestead. Perhaps it was a mistake, he thought. If he had gone out in the world, as I had, he might have an electric refrigerator and knives and forks. As it is, they still take meat with their hands and tear it apart with their fingers in the old homestead, and they know nothing of refrigeration even in its natural form. (He himself is only temporarily away from the old place and will be glad to get back home, despite that the cocktails are so good here.)

He is fond of the old home, despite its lack of modern convenience. . . "I would happily die for it even if there isn't a refrigerator in 100 square miles. There are in one's native land certain imponderable values that have nothing to do with refrigerators and other modern conveniences. And that brings me back to you, my cousin."

He said he liked me. He thought I had done a good job in the world since I left Palestine 2000 years ago. I had been of considerable use wherever I had gone in my long travels. He had reason to feel proud of me, his cousin.

Yet, he also felt sad on account of me. The way I've been treated in the world! . . "In the Christian world!" he exclaimed. "Do you think the Christian world ever will turn Christian?"

Though he was no Christian, he could not feel foreign to my pain, he said. First, he was a cousin of mine; then, as a member of the human family he could not tolerate oppression of any other member. Yes, he should like to do something for me, the Jew.

What should a man do for his poor, oppressed cousin? Certainly, he should take him into his house and give him shelter. There's plenty of room on the old estate and he can't begrudge a cousin.

"So," said the Arab, "you come back to the old homestead in Palestine after 2000 years and I welcome you. I say to you make yourself at home, cousin, and we'll try to get along, you and I."

"Yes," I told the Arab, "that's a generous view of it."

"Precisely", he replied, "but generosity is a two-way thorough-fare."

He thought it wasn't very generous of me to say that I was going to take the old homestead over as my own as soon as I was strong enough . . "to make a Jewish state out of it."

"After all", he said, "I've been guarding that home these 2000 years. It's mine you've been away all those years. Of course, I haven't fitted it with hot and cold running water and shower baths and basement rathskellers, but it's my home and I love it, but now you say you intend to take it over and run it yourself. You may put hot and cold running water in and give it other conveniences, but I love it just as it is and I don't intend to let you take it over, my dear cousin.

"You live in Ohio, don't you? Suppose now, the Indians returned to Ohio and said we'll take this state over as soon as we get strong enough. We will govern this state.

"I don't think you would like that. You would say that the Indians may come to Ohio and work and earn their living there, but the idea of their taking over the state just wouldn't appeal to you as fair. You might even resent it.

"Well, that is the way I feel about your taking over Palestine, my beloved cousin. I want to keep on loving you, but how can I do it when you say Palestine is your country and you're going to fill it up with your brothers, sisters, uncles and aunts until there are enough of you to take over the country. I'll just have to fight you, much to my regret, for I dearly love to get along with cousins.

"We can get along, though. We can get along if we respect each other and our rights. We could even govern the country together democratically, each having his just portion of government? What's wrong with that? But when you tell me that it's going to be your government, I'll have to cut your throat, my sweet cousin, in the interest of justice and democracy."

He said he shouldn't like to cut my throat and in token of that he ordered up another whiskey sour. He raised the glass . . "I drink", he said, "not to Arab power, not to Jewish power but to equal power based on justice and understanding."

I said I could drink to that and drank it down heartily, indeed.

PLAN HELICOPTER TRANSIT SERVICE

Indianapolis Railways Envisions Air Service Here.

Indianapolis Railways took a progressive step toward keeping our local transit system up-to-date when it filed petitions with the various public authorities last week for permission to operate helicopters in Indianapolis and the surrounding community.

Helicopters are new-type aircraft that can arise and alight without a runway, thus making it possible for them to be used as transit vehicles in large cities.

In making the announcement of its plans Mr. Harry Reid, president of Indianapolis Railways, stated that the transit firm cannot inaugurate this new service until the war is ended and helicopters become available for civilian use.

It is thought that Indianapolis Railways is the first major city transit system in the country to seek authority for this modern type of transportation service.

Mr. Reid has consulted with Igor Sikorsky, famed aircraft designer and developer of the helicopter, and William B. Stout, helicopter expert, concerning the practicability of using this new type air vehicle in city transit service. Both were enthusiastic about the possibilities of the helicopter for city service, Mr. Reid said. Col. Roscoe Turner, famous aviation authority, is acting as technical adviser to Mr. Reid.

Mr. Reid says the Terminal Station can be used as a downtown terminus for helicopter lines. "Because of its location, the Terminal Station is ideal for this purpose," Mr. Reid asserted.

J.D.C. Packages Reach Polish Refugees

This is the first picture to arrive from Palestine in the United States of the food and clothing packages which the Joint Distribution Committee is helping to relieve the distress of Polish Jewish refugees in Asiatic Russia. Shipped via Iran, some of the smaller packages, shown in the center, were designated to individual beneficiaries. J.D.C. representatives are presently seeking additional supplies throughout the Middle East. This is one phase of the J.D.C.'s efforts on behalf of the Polish refugees. For more than a year they have also been using J.D.C.-sent drugs, medicines, hospital equipment, blankets, and even diapers, which were dispatched from the United States on Russian freighters.

REPORTER ASKS FRANZ WERFEL ABOUT HOPE FOR JEWS IN NEW YEAR

Is it true that the majority of Germans are Nazis, anti-Semites? "Yes, of course," he replied. "Propaganda does it. If you have radios, newspapers, movies pounding Nazi propaganda into your head every minute of every hour of every day, you cannot resist it. Only the strongest can remain independent in their thinking. It is a law of mob psychology."

"Song of Bernadette" was a direct result of his flight from the Nazis. He says, "It was a time of great dread, but also a time of great significance. In Lourdes I became acquainted with the history of the girl, Bernadette Soubirous. I vowed that if I escaped I would put off all other tasks and sing the song of Bernadette as best I could." So the story was reborn. He wrote it in Hollywood . . . wrote it very fast . . . completed it in three months. It seemed to pour from his pen. Always he had the feeling that he was not directing it, but was only the channel through which the thoughts streamed. It became a best-seller . . . topped all lists of fiction for months. It has sold 800,000 copies of the American edition, and has also been printed in English, Swedish, Hungarian, French and various South American editions. The film version will soon be seen by millions.

Werfel's mysticism is dominant in "Bernadette." He sincerly believes she saw the vision. In his own life he has had some visions. An idea, a form, becomes so vivid that one cannot know whether it is actual, a phantasy, or a dream. To the one who sees it, it has reality, whether subjective or objective matters not. Mysticism spins a thread through his whole life. It became apparent at school when he earned the reputation of "good for nothing" because of his dreaming. It asserted itself when he left the home of his wealthy practical parents, who didn't appreciate his poetry. It spurred him to write pacifistic and anti-militaristic works which got for him the title of "coffee-house Messiah" in the years preceding World War I.

His career is sharply divided into three periods: Poetry, Drama and Fiction. Now in Hollywood he is beginning a fourth—screen-writing. He is very enthusiastic about the filming of "Bernadette." But this is not his first celluloid contact. "Juarez and Maximilian" was cinematized several years ago. "Forty Days of Musa Dagh" was actually before the cameras when the Turkish government intervened in the interest of neutrality. His play, "Jacobowski and the Colonel," soon to appear on the boards, is also scheduled for pictures. Filmtown is proud to have so eminent a writer added to its ranks. Figuratively and literally he has found a home here.

Terre Haute Post Of J.W.V. Thanked

Special

TERRE HAUTE — The local Post of the Jewish War Veterans of the U. S. A., Irving Jacobs, commander, is in receipt of a letter from headquarters of the New York port of embarkation acknowledging a shipment of 20,000 cigarettes sent to the servicemen and women overseas. The Lt. colonel in charge wrote, "Your fine effort is considered one of the best morale lifting factors of the present war."

30 Service Men Entertained—Thirty service men were entertained at dinner in 15 homes of the community for Rosh Hashonah. Following the evening services at Temple Israel the service men and Junior hostesses were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Becker until 11 p. m. when the boys from Depauw had to return to school. The home hospitality committee have also made arrangements for the service men for Yom Kippur.

Discussion Group Get Under Way Today—The Weekly Discussion Group of the B'nai B'rith starts today, Friday, Oct. 8 at the Hotel Deming. Rabbi J. Marshall Taxay will open the season with a talk on, "What's Going on Behind the Scenes."

Classes Resumed— The Temple Israel Sabbath School has resumed its classes with a new staff of teachers. Rabbi Marshall Taxay, hopes this year to be able to conduct an advanced class in Jewish education composed of the confirmants and high school and college students.

Frisch Declines Z.O.A. Membership Committee Post

Advancing his health as the reason, Daniel Frisch, this week declined appointment as national chairman of membership of the Zionist Organization of America. In a letter to Dr. Israel Goldstein, newly-elected president of the Z. O. A., Mr. Frisch said he would always be on hand for any Zionist work, but he did not feel that his health would permit him to undertake the work this year.

Mr. Frisch was named national membership chairman last spring.

TERRE HAUTE — Mrs. David Silverstein is home after a two weeks' rest at Martinsville, Ind.

On the day that it was announced that Italy surrendered, the girls in the New York office of the Jewish National Fund celebrated the occasion by collecting among themselves sufficient funds to inscribe Gen. Dwight Eisenhower in the Golden Book of the JNF.

FOOTNOTES TO HISTORY

Baron Edouard de Rothschild, once one of the richest men of Europe and now a refugee in this country, was among those who sat on the dais at the farewell dinner to the Soviet Jewish delegation at the Hotel Commodore last week. . . . We asked him whether he understands Yiddish . . . "No," he confessed, "but my grandfather, James Rothschild, spoke only Yiddish" . . . William C. Bullitt, who is running for mayor in Philadelphia, is rather puzzled. . . . Posters calling for his election recently made their appearance, boosting him as "one of our people, the son of Louisa Horowitz." . . . The posters were signed by the "B'nai B'rith Non-Sectarian League." . . . It was later discovered that they were the work of an anti-Roosevelt group . . . Bullitt, incidentally is very proud of the strain of Jewish blood in his ancestry. . . . For too many years now, says a current wisecrack, we've been talking about the Axis—now let's start saying the Axain't. . . .

READERS' GUIDE

Adolf Hitler as the great benefactor of American mathematics is the theme of an article by the Rockerfeller Foundation's Raymond B. Fosdick appearing in the current issue of Yeshiva College's Scripta Mathematica. . . . The article's thesis is that by exiling Germany's Jewish and liberal mathematicians Adolf did a great service for this country, which welcomed so many of those refugees . . . Best sellers are rare enough, but best-sellers written by rabbis are a Believe-It-Or-Not Ripley item . . . So you'll be interested to know that Rabbi Israel H. Levinthal's book "A New World Is Born," published by Funk and Wagnalls, sold out its first edition in a few weeks, and is going through its second at a swift pace . . . "The People and the Book" is the title of a little booklet written by Dr. Joshua Bloch and published by the New York Public Library . . . It is chockful of interesting information about the love, care and use of books among the Jews.

ABOUT PEOPLE

Major Louis Blau of Los Angeles is the president of the "I Bombed Japan Club," a very exclusive society membership in which is limited to those to whom the club's title applies . . . Isaac Carmel, veteran Zionist worker, has been invited to accept an executive position in an important institution outside the Zionist movement . . . Pierre van Paassen was incribed in the Golden Book of the Jewish National Fund recently by the Zionists of Hartford. . . . Maxa Nordau will soon be on her her way to California. . . . Coming to Broadway before long is the play Clifford Odets has made out of Franz Werfel's short story "Jakobowsky and the Colonel." . . . Comedian Zero Mostel, to whom the Army has just given a medical discharge, is going to show his Uncle Sam that he isn't entirely decrepit yet. . . . He's going overseas with a USO entertainment unit. . . . If and when you see screen credit being given to a new scriptwriter named Jeffrey Daniel, know you'll be seeing the work of none other than David Selznick, the Hollywood producer. . . . The nom de plume is a combination of the names of his two sons. . . . Joseph Buloff, who left the Second Avenue stage for Broadway not so many years ago, is now getting Hollywood offers. . . . So don't be surprised if a new comedian blossoms forth on the screen ere long . . . Breaking into the ranks of Broadway producers is stage and screen cemedian Milton Berle, who is bringing us "I'll Take the High Road," by Lucille Prumbs . . . Lucille, you remember, is the daughter of Sarah B. Smith, well-known Yiddish novlist and newspaperwoman. . . .

Asaph on WFBM With Yom Kippur Program

The Asaph organization will present a Yom Kippur broadcast at 2:30 p. m. Friday, Oct. 8 over WFBM. Cantor Myro Glass will chant Kol Nidre and other melodies of the Yom Kippur service. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Evelyn Borofsky Roskin at the organ.
